ENLARGING WORDS...

1 Whenever a character is shouting, there are plenty of opportunities for the letterer to bring the dialogue to life. In this balloon, Hip is shouting at Jules, so he would probably say the first "Hey!" louder to get his attention.

2 The easiest way to vary the size of a word is to double-click it with the Text tool, then hit command-shift-period to enlarge by increments of 2pts, or command-shift-comma to reduce by increments of 2pts. You can also fine-tune the size point-by-point by selecting the text and typing in higher or lower values into the "Point Size" box in the Character palette.

3 Word up! To give the emphasized word more life, add bounce to a few of the letters by highlighting them with the text tool and adjusting the value of the "Baseline Shift" setting in the Character Palette.

OUTLINING WORDS...

1 Sometimes a word is so loud, it needs to literally break free of the word balloon! Type the word in a new text box, "Create Outlines", and break the letters as if it were a sound effect (see page 96).

2 Select the letters and group them (command-G). Send this group to back (command-shift-B) and give it a thick black stroke (10pt, or so).

3 Copy (command-C), Paste in Front (command-F) and bring to front (command-shift-F). Give this group a thinner white stroke (5 pt, or so).

4 Copy, Paste in Front, and give this final grouping a black fill with no stroke.
