legitimacy for themselves and for Security Council decisions as part of the negotiation process Inside the UN Security Council introduces and develops the concept of legitimation practices to analyse the UN Security Council's decision making Legitimation practices shape the process and outcome of negotiations in two different ways Internal legitimation practices which relate to the legitimation of Security Council decisions such as prioritizing unanimity constrain and enable the text of resolutions External legitimation practices such as doing something even when it is known that it cannot be implemented relate to the legitimation of actors in the negotiations and shape whether decisions can be reached at all Foregrounding legitimation practices sheds light on seemingly contradictory moments within Security Council decision making such as the United States enabling the referral of the situation in Darfur to the International Criminal Court despite its longstanding objections to the court and the capacity to veto the decision The book draws on a wide range of primary and secondary sources including original interviews with key decision makers to show that legitimation practices are an integral aspect of Security Council negotiations
