Tackling Poverty Ebikinei Stanley Eguruze,2016-04-30 This study investigates what young people and community organisations see as their support needs in Bayelsa State of Nigeria in tackling poverty It also examines the process of influencing policy makers using social marketing techniques It seeks to expand understanding of the poverty elimination processes not only within a developing countrys rural environmental context but also endeavours to generalize the findings more broadly It seeks an inclusive approach to policy determination driven by involving grassroots levels A mixed methods research design was adopted engaging a quantitative approach in which 300 young people were surveyed using self completion questionnaires In addition a qualitative study in which policy makers as well as young people and community organisations were interviewed A discussion group methodology was adopted Following the data analysis a strategy conference was organized in Nigeria in which the major findings were presented and debated This research has improved on the previous Multi dimensional Poverty Index by enlarging it and combining it with a current Social Marketing Technique model The new Multi dimensional Poverty Index Implementable Joint Programme of Action model is user friendly and retains the multidimensional paradigm This extension was achieved through the literature research the development of methodology adopting mixed methods approach and the strategy conference The main findings of the research show that young people and community organisations support needs in Bayelsa State of Nigeria are far from being met A great deal of additional support is required The most significant causes of poverty amongst young people and community organisations are corruption of government officials absence of jobs low wages oil pollution and IMF World Bank conditionalities It was also found that the main experiences of poverty include a high youth unemployment rate lack of money to go to school lack of money to start small businesses less food to eat no money to treat sickness no money to buy clothes no money to afford decent homes prostitution and absence of a public transportation system The research considers the ways in which this additional support might be provided Importantly the research also revealed how extreme poverty could be alleviated and by persuading policy makers to create real jobs and job opportunities as well as developing employability skills and improving agriculture In addition there is a need to attract investors oil companies to Bayelsa State and to increase investment spending The lack of social infrastructure and access to free education steady electricity and free healthcare are also seen as problems Finally the research revealed that actively involving young people and community organisations in policy decision making and policy implementation processes including setting new priorities or re directing is likely to enhance the probability of ending extreme poverty

Synergies Created by a Strategic Fit between Business and Human Resource Strategies Wilson J. Osito Odiyo,2013-07-26 This text is an important addition to the ongoing discourse on strategic management particularly strategic human resource management It is a result of research carried out in the agricultural sector in general and on multinational tea firms in particular. The author's hands-on and conceptual insights gained through nineteen years of experience across African countries make the text a useful tool for company boards of directors and strategic level managers charged with the formulation and implementation of business and human resource strategies. In addition, it provides justification to HR managers of the need to shift focus from primarily being concerned with routine transactional HR activities to dealing with transformational ones which are contingent on the circumstances of the organization. Scholars, management consultants, and management students will also find the contents of this book to be of great interest and benefit. It is now sufficiently recognised that management has to be concerned with deliverables rather than abstractions. Therefore, many firms formulate and implement one form of business strategy or the other. However, strategies cannot be conceived, let alone realised, without human resource input. The question that HR continues to grapple with, therefore, is how it can demonstrate the contribution of each employee to the bottom line and business sustainability. How this question is to be answered has not always been explained and is even more crucial for the agricultural firms which are characterized by great instability in terms of weather patterns, commodity prices, currency exchange rates, and wage levels. HR planning in these circumstances cannot be a simple exercise, but getting it right is more important than for organizations in more predictable environments. This book moves away from the romanticization of the role of HRM in such organizations and instead provides empirical evidence of the types of business and human resource strategies employed, strategic integration between these strategies and the strategic human resource management processes and practices used. Finally, it considers the concomitant synergies achieved by strategic fit between business and human resource strategies and their role in achieving sustainable competitive advantage.
