Kinfolk 31 Kinfolk,2019-03-12 Issue Thirty One The spring issue of Kinfolk builds on our foundational interest in design to consider the discipline in its most ambitious manifestation architecture Mid century architect and furniture designer Charlotte Perriand whose archives we delve into in this issue once wrote The extension of the art of dwelling is the art of living We interrogate this close relationship between external surroundings and interior wellbeing and meet the architects chipping away at the partition wall between the two Buildings affect the mood and behavior of their inhabitants Equally the things we build or wish to build reflect our own state of mind blueprints of the ways in which we hope to reinvent the world This issue of Kinfolk will pay homage to the architects with dreams too big for city planners to swallow from an investigation into the history of utopian design to a photo essay about the most visionary projects that have been demolished or simply never built over the last century We also interview those who have bridged the divide and made their strangest whims a reality like Asif Khan whose belief in a future where architecture is light intelligent and simple inspired him to build with bubbles Elsewhere in the issue we meet Sharon Van Etten who talks about why she chose to study psychology while writing her new album and we spend a day in the studio with Kyle Abraham the choreographer making history at the New York City Ballet As the weather turns warmer our thoughts follow this issue s essays find our writers lingering on balconies musing on the impossibility of turning over a new leaf and biting down on the juicy history of the peach Kinfolk 59

s weekly Friday night dinners for family and friends into a beloved podcast Plus our contributors spend time with a dry cleaner a dermatologist and a saxophonist ask whether culture is dead and try to make sense of Theseus paradox Since 2011 Kinfolk has set the standard for independent publishing in art design aesthetics architecture homes and interiors Our quarterly lifestyle magazine is sold in over 100 countries published in three languages and makes the perfect coffee table magazine or gift for a creative Featuring inspiring photography fashion and style as well as examinations of slow living Kinfolk is an art and design publication that seeks to promote quality of life and connect a community of creative thinkers
