Translating Fictional Dialogue for Children and Young People Martin B. Fischer, Maria Wirf Naro, 2012-09-01 Literary and multimodal texts for children and young people play an important role in their acquisition of language and literacy and they are a flourishing part of publishing and translating activities today This book brings together twenty one papers on the particular aspect of the translation of feigned orality As the link between the literary and the multimodal text fictional dialogue is the appropriate place for evoking orality lending authenticity and credibility to the narrated plot and giving a voice to fictitious characters This is illustrated with examples from narrative and dramatic texts as well as films cartoons and television series in their respective modes of mediation translating interpreting dubbing and subtitling The findings are of interest from the scholarly point of view of contrastive linguistics for the professional practice of translating interpreting dubbing and subtitling and in the educational context

Cycles in Language Change Miriam Bouzouita, Anne Breitbarth, Lieven Danckaert, Elisabeth Witzenhausen, 2019-09-18 This volume explores the multiple aspects of cyclical syntactic change from a wide range of empirical perspectives The notion of linguistic cycle has long been recognized as being relevant to the description of many processes of language change In grammaticalization a given linguistic form loses its lexical meaning and sometimes some of its phonological content and then gradually weakens until it ultimately vanishes This change becomes cyclical when the grammaticalized form is replaced by an innovative item which can then develop along exactly the same pathway But cyclical changes have also been observed in language change outside of grammaticalization proper The chapters in this book reflect the growing interest in the phenomenon of grammaticalization and cyclicity in generative syntax with topics including the diachrony of negation the syntax of determiners and pronominal clitics the internal structure of wh words and logical operators cyclical changes in argument structure and the relationship between morphology and syntax The contributions draw on data from multiple language families such as Indo European Semitic Japonic and Athabaskan The volume combines empirical descriptions of novel comparative data with detailed theoretical analysis and will appeal to historical linguists working in formal and usage based frameworks as well as to typologists and scholars interested in language variation and change more broadly Coarticulation and Sound Change in Romance Daniel Recasens, 2014-04-15 This volume should be of great interest to phoneticians phonologists and both historical and cognitive linguists Using data from the Romance languages for the most part the book explores the phonetic motivation of several sound changes e.g. glide insertions and elisions vowel and consonant insertions elisions assimilations and dissimilations Within the framework of the DAC degree of articulatory constraint model of coarticulation it clearly demonstrates that the typology and direction of these sound changes may very largely be accounted for by the coarticulatory effects occurring between adjacent or neighbouring phonetic segments and by the degrees of articulatory constraint imposed by speakers on the production of vowels and consonants The phonetically based explanations presented here are formulated on the basis of coarticulation data from speech production and perception research carried out during the last fifty years and are complemented with data on the co occurrence of phonetic segments in lexical forms of the languages being considered Attention is also paid to the role that positional and prosodic factors play in sound change implementation as well as to the cognitive and peripheral strategies involved in segmental replacements elisions and insertions Translating Children's Literature Gillian Lathey, 2015-07-24

Translating Children's Literature is an exploration of the many developmental and linguistic issues related to writing and translating for children an audience that spans a period of enormous intellectual progress and affective change from birth to adolescence Lathey looks at a broad range of children's literature from prose fiction to poetry and picture books Each of the seven chapters addresses a different aspect of translation for children covering Narrative style and the challenges of translating the child's voice The translation of cultural markers for young readers Translation of the modern picture book Dialogue dialect and street language in modern children's literature Read aloud qualities wordplay onomatopoeia and the translation of children's poetry Retranslation retelling and reworking The role of translation for children within the global publishing and translation industries This is the first practical guide to address all aspects of translating children's literature featuring extracts from commentaries and interviews with published translators of children's literature as well as examples and case studies across a range of languages and texts Each chapter includes a set of questions and exercises for students Translating Children's Literature is essential reading for professional translators researchers and students on courses in translation studies or children's literature Differential Object Marking in Romance Johannes Kabatek, Philipp

Obrist, Albert Wall, 2021-11-22 After a first wave of traditional studies on prepositional accusatives and a second wave exploring the typological dimensions of Differential Object Marking in Bossong's footsteps a new line of research is currently introducing new methods deepening the level of analysis and offering new perspectives on the issue This volume presents 11 innovative original contributions representative of this third wave of studies on DOM in Romance Historical Pragmatics

Andreas H. Jucker, 1995-12-07 Until very recently pragmatics has been restricted to the analysis of contemporary spoken language while historical linguistics has studied historical texts and language change in a decontextualized way This has now radically changed and scholars from around the world are trying to build a new theoretical framework that integrates recent advances both in pragmatics and in historical linguistics The volume which contains 22 original articles starts with an introduction that is both a state of the art account of historical pragmatics and a programmatic statement of its future potential and its different subfields Part I contains seven pragmaphilological papers that deal with historical texts and their interpretations by paying close attention to the communicative context of these texts The second and third parts comprise papers in diachronic pragmatics The ten papers of part II take a linguistic form as their starting point e g particular lexical items or syntactic constructions and study their pragmatic functions at different times diachronic form to function mappings while the four papers of part III take a particular pragmatic function as their starting point e g discourse strategies or politeness and study their linguistic realisation at different times diachronic function to form mappings
