Complex Analysis

In this part of the course we will study some basic complex analysis. This is an extremely useful and beautiful part of mathematics and forms the basis of many subsequent chapters in many branches of mathematics and physics. We will review the complex derivatives and integrals, Cauchy's theorem, for the case of complex functions of a complex variable. In so doing we will meet some analytic functions, which form the core of this part of the course. In fact, for a large range complex analysis is the study of analytic functions. After a brief review of complex numbers we proceed to the complex plane, we will then discuss analyticity and give plenty of examples of analytic functions. We will then discuss complex integration, commencing with the generalised Cauchy Integral Formula, and some of its applications. We then go on to discuss the power series representations of analytic functions and the various criteria which will allow us to compute many real integrals and infinite sums via complex integration.

2.1 Analytic Functions

In this section we will study complex functions of a complex variable. We will see that differentiability of such a function is a non-trivial property, arising from the concept of an analytic function. We will then study some examples of analytic functions. In fact, the construction of analytic functions will form a basic building for this part of the course.

2.1.1 The complex plane

We already discussed complex numbers briefly in Section 1.3.1. The emphasis in that section was on the algebraic properties of complex numbers, and
