Non-equilibrium Statistical Physics with Application to Disordered Systems

Manuel Osvaldo Cáceres, 2017-03-07 This textbook is the result of the enhancement of several courses on non equilibrium statistics stochastic processes stochastic differential equations anomalous diffusion and disorder The target audience includes students of physics mathematics biology chemistry and engineering at undergraduate and graduate level with a grasp of the basic elements of mathematics and physics of the fourth year of a typical undergraduate course The little known physical and mathematical concepts are described in sections and specific exercises throughout the text as well as in appendices Physical mathematical motivation is the main driving force for the development of this text It presents the academic topics of probability theory and stochastic processes as well as new educational aspects in the presentation of non equilibrium statistical theory and stochastic differential equations In particular it discusses the problem of irreversibility in that context and the dynamics of Fokker Planck An introduction on fluctuations around metastable and unstable points are given It also describes relaxation theory of non stationary Markov periodic in time systems The theory of finite and infinite transport in disordered networks with a discussion of the issue of anomalous diffusion is introduced Further it provides the basis for establishing the relationship between quantum aspects of the theory of linear response and the calculation of diffusion coefficients in amorphous systems

A Real-Time Approach to Process Control, Solutions Manual William Y. Svrcek, Donald P. Mahoney, Brent R. Young, 2000-10-10 A hands on teaching and reference text for chemical engineers In writing this book the authors have focused exclusively on the vast majority of chemical engineering students who need a basic understanding of practical process control for their industrial careers Traditionally process control has been taught using non intuitive and highly mathematical techniques Laplace and frequency domain techniques Aside from being difficult to master in a one semester course the traditional approach is of limited use for more complex process control problems encountered in the chemical processing industries When designing and analyzing multi loop control systems today industry practitioners employ both steady state and dynamic simulation based methodologies These real time methods have now all but replaced the traditional approach A Real Time Approach to Process Control provides the student with both a theoretical and practical introduction to this increasingly important approach Assuming no prior knowledge of the subject this text introduces all of the applied fundamentals of process control from instrumentation to process dynamics PID loops and tuning to distillation multi loop and plant wide control In addition students come away with a working knowledge of the three most popular dynamic simulation packages The text carefully balances theory and practice by offering students readings and lecture materials along with hands on workshops that provide a virtual process on which to experiment and from which to learn modern real time control strategy development Features The first and only textbook to use a completely real time approach Gives students the opportunity to understand and use HYSYS software Carefully designed workshops tutorials have been included to allow students to practice and apply the theory Includes many worked examples and student problems VISIT THE AUTHORS WEBSITE www.ench.ucalgary.ca/realtime
