American Documentary Film Jeffrey Geiger, 2011-06-29 Richard Wall Memorial Award 2012 Finalist What key concerns are reflected in documentaries produced in and about the United States? How have documentaries engaged with competing visions of US history, culture, politics, and national identity? This book examines how documentary films have contributed to the American public sphere, creating a kind of public space serving as sites for community building, public expression, and social innovation. Geiger focuses on how documentaries have been significant in forming ideas of the nation, both as an imagined space and a real place. Moving from the dawn of cinema to the present day, this is the first full-length study to focus on the extensive range and history of American non-fiction filmmaking. Combining comprehensive overviews with in-depth case studies, Geiger maps American documentary's intricate histories, examining the impact of pre- and early-cinema travelogues, the avant-garde, 1930s social documentary, propaganda, direct cinema, postmodernism, and new documentary. Offering detailed close analyses and fresh insights, this book provides students and scholars with a stimulating guide to American documentary, reminding us of its important place in cinema history.

Speaking Truths with Film Bill Nichols, 2016-04-05 What issues of both form and content shape the documentary film? What role does visual evidence play in relation to a documentary's arguments about the world in which we live? Can a documentary be believed, and why or why not? How do documentaries abide by or subvert ethical expectations? Are mockumentaries a form of subversion In what ways can the documentary be an aesthetic experience and at the same time have political or social impact And how can such impacts be empirically measured Pioneering film scholar Bill Nichols investigates the ways in which documentaries strive for accuracy and truthfulness but simultaneously fabricate a form that shapes reality Such films may rely on re enactment to re create the past storytelling to provide satisfying narratives and rhetorical figures such as metaphor and expressive forms such as irony to make a point In many ways documentaries are a fiction unlike any other With clarity and passion Nichols offers close readings of several provocative documentaries including Land without Bread Restrepo The Thin Blue Line The Act of Killing and Steve Jobs The Man in the Machine as part of an authoritative examination of the layered approaches and delicate ethical balance demanded of documentary filmmakers

Provided by publisher Cine-Ethics Jinhee Choi, Mattias Frey, 2013-10-15 This volume looks at the significance and range of ethical questions that pertain to various film practices Diverse philosophical traditions provide useful frameworks to discuss spectators affective and emotional engagement with film which can function as a moral ground for one's connection to others and to the world outside the self These traditions encompass theories of emotion phenomenology the philosophy of compassion and analytic and continental ethical thinking and environmental ethics This anthology is one of the first volumes to open up a dialogue among these diverse methodologies Contributors bring to the fore some of the assumptions implicitly shared between these theories and forge a new relationship between them in order to explore the moral engagement of the spectator and the ethical consequences of both producing and consuming films
