

Performance Task Assessment

Reporting to the President

After reading sections two through five about receiving, using, and paying bills, you will have learned an important responsibility that all citizens have as members of our government.

1. After reading the sections, a responsibility that you will have learned is to receive, use, and pay bills. What are the steps to receive, use, and pay bills? How does the government use bills to receive, use, and pay bills? How does the government use bills to receive, use, and pay bills?

Answer: There is a process to receive, use, and pay bills. The process starts with the bill being passed by Congress. The bill then goes to the President. The President can sign the bill into law or veto it. If the President vetoes the bill, Congress can override the veto with a two-thirds majority. The bill then goes to the courts. The courts can declare the bill unconstitutional or uphold it. The bill then goes to the states. The states can sue the federal government to stop the bill from being enforced. The bill then goes to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court can declare the bill unconstitutional or uphold it. The bill then goes to the states. The states can sue the federal government to stop the bill from being enforced. The bill then goes to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court can declare the bill unconstitutional or uphold it.

2. Using the information you gathered in the first part of the task, write a letter to the President of the United States. In your letter, explain the process of receiving, using, and paying bills. Be sure to include the following information in your letter:

- a. How to receive a bill.
- b. How to use a bill.
- c. How to pay a bill.
- d. How to sue the federal government to stop a bill from being enforced.
