3.1 Properties of Matter

All of the material—the “stuff”—around us is matter. A substance is matter that has a uniform and unchanging composition. For example, water is a pure substance. No matter where it is found, a sample of water will have the same composition as any other sample of water.

A physical property of a substance is a characteristic that can be observed and measured without changing the composition of the substance. Words such as hard, soft, shiny, dull, brittle, flexible, heavy (in density), and light (in density) are used to describe physical properties.

A chemical property describes the ability of a substance to combine with or change into one or more other substances. For example, the ability of iron to form rust when combined with air is a chemical property of iron. The inability of a substance to combine with another substance is also a chemical property. For example, the inability to combine with most other substances is a chemical property of gold.
