SITELESS Francois Blanciak,2008-02-29 An attempt to free architecture from site and program constraints and to counter the profusion of ever bigger architecture books with ever smaller content Some may call it the first manifesto of the twenty first century for it lays down a new way to think about architecture Others may think of it as the last architectural treatise for it provides a discursive container for ideas that would otherwise be lost Whatever genre it belongs to SITELESS is a new kind of architecture book that seems to have come out of nowhere Its author a young French architect practicing in Tokyo admits he didn t do this out of reverence toward architecture but rather out of a profound boredom with the discipline as a sort of compulsive reaction What would happen if architects liberated their minds from the constraints of site program and budget he asks The result is a book that is saturated with forms and as free of words as any architecture book the MIT Press has ever published The 1001 building forms in SITELESS include structural parasites chain link towers ball bearing floors corrugated corners exponential balconies radial facades crawling frames forensic housing and other architectural ideas that may require construction techniques not yet developed and a relation to gravity not yet achieved SITELESS presents an open ended compendium of visual ideas for the architectural imagination to draw from The forms drawn freehand to avoid software specific shapes but from a constant viewing angle are presented twelve to a page with no scale order or end to the series After setting down 1001 forms in siteless conditions and embryonic stages Blanciak takes one of the forms and performs a scale test showing what happens when one of these fantastic ideas is subjected to the actual constraints of a site in central Tokyo The book ends by illustrating the potential of these shapes to morph into actual building proportions

A Language of Contemporary Architecture Rafael Luna, Dongwoo Yim,2023-05-05 As a way to understand the contemporary project in architecture this book provides an index of ideas theories projects and definitions that string into a methodology for evaluating the contemporary language of architecture described as contemporism through a review of topology form and typology system and elements The contemporary project has been trying to answer the postmodern question of how to move beyond modernism through a thread of architectural styles that tried to respond to deficiencies from the modern promise and contextual changes Yet the question remains should this ongoing struggle to move beyond modernism be a stylistic battle Has the present architectural practice ever left the modernist tendencies and is there a structure for a contemporary language in architecture This book presents a collection of highly illustrated projects that have worked under these parameters to break away from modernism in order to present a holistic integration of topology and typology as a language for contemporism The index is illustrated with individual spreads which can be read sequentially or independently and encourages the reader to make their own connections It also includes interviews and contributions from Toyo Ito Anthony Vidler Ben van Berkel Christian Kerez and Greg Lynn This book is essential reading for undergraduate and graduate students in architecture architect François Blanciak surveys the robotic faces omnipresent in Tokyo buildings offering an architectural taxonomy based not on the usual variables size material historical style but on the observable expressions of buildings Are the eyes windows twinkling the mouth door laughing Is that balcony a howl of distress Investigating robot aesthetics through his photographs of fifty buildings Blanciak argues that the robot face originated in architecture before the birth of robotics and has played a central role in architectural history Blanciak first puts the robot face into historical perspective examining the importance of the face in architectural theory and demonstrating that the construction of architecture's emblematic portraits triggered the emergence of a robot aesthetics He then explores the emotions conveyed by the photographed buildings robot faces in chapters titled Awe Wrath Mirth Pain Angst and Hunger As he does so he considers among other things the architectural relevance of Tokyo's ordinary buildings the repression of the figural in contemporary architecture an aesthetic of dismemberment linked to the structure of the Japanese language and local building design and the influence of automation technology upon human interaction Part photographic survey part theoretical inquiry Tokyoids upends the usual approach to robotics in architecture by considering not the automation of architectural output but the aesthetic properties of the robot
