HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY

Body structure and function of the human body

Objectives

- 1. Identify the major systems of the human body.
- 2. Describe the structure and function of the major organs of the human body.
- 3. Explain the relationship between structure and function of the human body.

Structure and function

Understanding the structure and function of the human body is essential for understanding the relationship between structure and function of the human body.

- 1. Structure - The physical form of the human body.
- 2. Function - The activity or action of the human body.
- 3. Relationship - The connection between structure and function of the human body.

CELLS AND TISSUES

The basic unit of life is the cell. Cells are the building blocks of the human body. They are made up of various organelles that perform different functions. Cells are grouped together to form tissues. Tissues are made up of similar cells that work together to perform a specific function.

Objectives

- 1. Describe the structure and function of the cell.
- 2. Explain the relationship between structure and function of the cell.
- 3. Identify the major organelles of the cell and their functions.

THE HEART

The heart is a muscular organ that pumps blood throughout the body. It is made up of four chambers: the right atrium, right ventricle, left atrium, and left ventricle. The heart is surrounded by a double-walled sac called the pericardium. The heart is connected to the rest of the body by a network of blood vessels called the circulatory system.

THE LUNG

The lung is a large, spongy organ that is responsible for the exchange of gases in the body. It is made up of millions of small air sacs called alveoli. The lung is surrounded by a double-walled sac called the pleura. The lung is connected to the rest of the body by a network of blood vessels called the pulmonary circulation.

NERVOUS SYSTEM

The nervous system is a complex network of cells that is responsible for the control and coordination of the body's activities. It is made up of the brain, spinal cord, and peripheral nerves. The nervous system is divided into the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS).

Objectives

- 1. Describe the structure and function of the nervous system.
- 2. Explain the relationship between structure and function of the nervous system.

CELLS OF NERVE

The cells of the nervous system are specialized cells that are responsible for the transmission of electrical signals. They are made up of the neuron, which is the basic unit of the nervous system. The neuron is made up of the cell body, dendrites, and axon. The axon is covered by a myelin sheath that insulates the axon and allows for the rapid transmission of electrical signals.

Objectives

- 1. Describe the structure and function of the neuron.
- 2. Explain the relationship between structure and function of the neuron.
- 3. Identify the major components of the neuron and their functions.

CELLS OF BLOOD

The cells of the blood are specialized cells that are responsible for the transport of oxygen and nutrients to the body's tissues. They are made up of the red blood cell, white blood cell, and platelet. The red blood cell is the most abundant cell in the blood and is responsible for the transport of oxygen. The white blood cell is responsible for the immune response. The platelet is responsible for the clotting of blood.

INTERNAL SYSTEM

The internal system is a complex network of organs that is responsible for the regulation of the body's internal environment. It is made up of the endocrine system, the digestive system, and the excretory system. The endocrine system is responsible for the production and release of hormones. The digestive system is responsible for the breakdown of food into nutrients. The excretory system is responsible for the removal of waste from the body.
