

Activity 1: The Impact of the Cold War on Europe

Background: The Cold War (1945-1991) was a period of geopolitical tension between the United States and the Soviet Union. This activity explores the impact of the Cold War on Europe.

The Cold War was a period of intense political and military rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union. It began after World War II and ended with the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991. The United States and its allies formed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), while the Soviet Union and its allies formed the Warsaw Pact. The division of Europe into two blocs was a direct result of the Cold War. The Iron Curtain, a metaphorical barrier, separated the Western world from the Eastern world. The Berlin Wall, built in 1961, was a physical manifestation of this division. The Cold War also led to the formation of the European Union (EU) in 1993, which was a response to the need for economic and political cooperation in Europe.

The Cold War had a profound impact on Europe. It led to the division of the continent into two blocs, the Western Bloc and the Eastern Bloc. The Western Bloc was led by the United States and included countries like West Germany, France, and the United Kingdom. The Eastern Bloc was led by the Soviet Union and included countries like East Germany, Poland, and Czechoslovakia. The division of Europe was a result of the Yalta Conference in 1945, where the United States, the Soviet Union, and the United Kingdom agreed on the post-war order. The Cold War also led to the formation of the European Union (EU) in 1993, which was a response to the need for economic and political cooperation in Europe.
