GRAMMAR

THE VERB

The verb is the most important word in a sentence. It tells us what is happening and who is doing it. Verbs can be used in many different ways, and it is important to know the rules for using them correctly.

Verb forms

Verbs can be used in different forms, depending on the tense and voice of the sentence. The main forms are the infinitive, the present participle, the past participle, and the past tense.

Verb agreement

The verb must agree with the subject of the sentence in terms of number and person. For example, 'He goes to school' is correct, but 'He go to school' is incorrect.

SENTENCES

A sentence is a group of words that express a complete thought. Sentences can be simple, compound, or complex.

Simple sentences

A simple sentence consists of one independent clause. It has a subject and a predicate.

Compound sentences

A compound sentence consists of two or more independent clauses joined by a coordinating conjunction (and, but, or, so, yet, for, nor).

Complex sentences

A complex sentence consists of one independent clause and one or more dependent clauses. The dependent clause is introduced by a subordinating conjunction (because, although, when, if, since, as, after, before, until, while, unless, even though, in order to, so that, as if, as though, as though, as though).

PUNCTUATION

Punctuation marks are used to clarify the meaning of a sentence and to indicate the end of a sentence. The most common punctuation marks are the period, comma, semicolon, colon, apostrophe, and quotation marks.

Period

The period is used to end a sentence. It is a small dot placed at the end of a sentence.

Comma

The comma is used to separate items in a list, to separate clauses in a compound sentence, and to separate a clause from the rest of the sentence.

Semicolon

The semicolon is used to separate two independent clauses that are closely related in meaning.

Colon

The colon is used to introduce a list, a quotation, or a clause that explains or elaborates on the preceding text.

Apostrophe

The apostrophe is used to show possession, to form contractions, and to indicate the omission of letters in a word.

Quotation marks

Quotation marks are used to enclose direct quotations, titles of books and articles, and words used in a special sense.
