Space Strategy in the 21st Century Eligar Sadeh, 2013. This book offers an overview of space strategy in the 21st century. The purpose of space strategy is to coordinate, integrate and prioritize space activities across security, commercial and civil sectors. Without strategy, space activities continue to provide value but it becomes difficult to identify and execute long term programs and projects and to optimize the use of space for security, economic, civil and environmental ends. Strategy is essential for all these ends since dependence on and use of space is accelerating globally and space is integrated in the fabric of activities across all sectors and uses. This volume identifies a number of areas of concern pertinent to the development of national space strategy including intellectual foundations, political challenges, international cooperation and space governance, space assurance and political, organizational and management aspects specific to security space strategy. The contributing authors expand their focus beyond that of the United States and explore and analyse the international developments and implications of national space strategies of Russia, China, Europe, Japan, India, Israel and Brazil. This book will be of much interest to students of space power and politics, strategic studies, foreign policy and International Relations in general.

The Writers Directory, 2013. Journal of Business Strategies, 2011. Evaluating Strategy Patricia A. Patrizi, Michael Quinn Patton, 2010. Strategy has emerged as a watchword of modern change efforts. Calls to be strategic are sounded in the private sector, government, philanthropy and the not for profit sectors. Management experts stress the importance of strategic thinking. Change agents are urged to act strategically. Strategic planning has long been a mainstay of organizational development. Leaders in all sectors talk not about theories of change or logic models but about being strategic. Strategic thinking, Strategic planning, Strategic results, Being strategic, Strategy execution, Effective strategies, Adapting strategically. And now evaluating strategy. But strategy is a new unit of analysis for evaluation. Traditionally, evaluation has focused on projects, programs, products, policies and personnel. What does it mean to treat strategy as the evaluation focus as the thing evaluated? What is strategy? How does one evaluate strategy? What are the implications of this new direction for evaluation theory, methods, practice and ultimately use? This issue examines these questions and provides examples of strategy focused evaluations. Evaluating strategy is not about evaluating strategic planning or even strategic plans. It's about evaluating strategy itself. Strategy is the evaluand. That poses new challenges and offers new opportunities to meet the information needs of evaluation users. For evaluation to be relevant to decision makers and leaders, the focus of the evaluation must be on what they are concerned about and what they care about.

Increasingly they care about identifying and implementing effective strategies That s where evaluation enters the picture Evaluating strategy has the purpose of making strategy more effective differentiating effective from ineffective strategies and contributing to the ongoing development and adaptation of strategy in response to changing conditions and real world complexities Evaluating strategy is a new direction for evaluation one that is likely to take on increasing importance if evaluators learn to do it well This issue takes up that challenge This is the 128th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation an official publication of the American Evaluation Association Management Richard L.
