Statement of inquiry

Statements of inquiry set conceptual understanding in a global context in order to frame classroom inquiry and direct purposeful learning.

Statements of inquiry summarize 'What we will be learning, and why' in language that is meaningful to students.

Inquiry questions

Factual: concrete questions that have right and wrong answers (who, why, what, when, where); often focusing on recall

Conceptual: more abstract questions that explore broader meanings, deeper understanding and transferable knowledge; often involving analysis and synthesis

Debatable: questions that generate disagreement, engage multiple perspectives, and promote critical and creative thinking; often involving the creation and exploration of competing values, theories and rationales.
