

OPERATIONAL MANAGEMENT CASE STUDY

Q.1. Why is operational management important to CEM?

Answer:

The success of goods or services involving manufacturing or processing depend upon design, specifications, materials, equipment or technology as well as human resources. It is critical and important activity for the organization. The efficient operations ensure the production of services or a finished commodity and that ability to produce is usually dependent on the performance, profit, survival operations and processes are essential to the success of the business in the long run. Hence, materials and equipment, operations management is the management of systems or processes that create goods and/or services. Having the operations business activities done efficiently, they will have the long-term goals for their organization. The example when CEM managed their resources, they producing finished items with higher accuracy, quality and lower cost/price. In the operations strategy in manufacturing companies make more profitable ways of producing goods, the companies can able to control or improve their target using lower cost/price. Furthermore, some manufacturing cost has been reduced by using productive/operating activities supported by the cost of CEM.

1. Efficient and effective operations management means that the business processes are well-run and the other related factors are optimized. It ensures that goods are produced and distributed in a systematic manner, leading to efficiency, lower costs, or value.

2. Material and methods involve various activities, materials, structures and technology, equipment, and resources. Good design, management, tools, methods that are of great relevance, allowing them to be used effectively and in more varied circumstances.

3. Process reliability and consistency is guaranteed management by making the process able to produce highly accurate, consistent, quality items that process can be repeated to make, leading to efficiency and consistent performance. This helps in making process and producing high quality and a consistent with customers.

4. Quality management design, control, report is a high level of quality and reliability. Operations management ensures that quality control measures are in place throughout the design process, leading to the delivery of high quality products or services.
