Individual rankings: 22

Team rankings: 8

Desert survival exercise is one of the most popular exercise that is carried out to find out that is the group working towards one direction i.e. there is synergy in group or not?

As in our case, we were total 6 survivors. Now the first and the foremost difficulty is to decide whether to stop at location till help comes, or to move forward to nearest camp. The team decided to stop there till the help comes. For the purpose, there were suggestions and ideas given by each of the members in the group that leads to conflicts in the group as some of the members were saying that we should stop and some were opposing that. Finally, we had given opportunity to each member to say his point forward and after carefully analyzing then it was finalized to stop till the help comes. The process so called is group think. Unless there is no conflict and ideas from different members of group, it doesn't led to group think. The first step of team development process was forming. When our members meet each other first time after the assignment was given we came to know our group members. Then came storming inn which each member presents it ideas to for status and for acceptance. Same as in our team, all members were giving their ideas, so that group can accept them. But as all members were not on same page, there arouses the conflicts. Norming stage comes after performing in which all of our team members start to work more effectively. In this stage, the team has agreed on their team rules for working together, how they will share information and resolve team conflict, and what tools and processes they will use to get the job done. The team members begin to trust each other and actively seek each other out for assistance and input. Rather than compete against each other, they are now helping each other to work toward a common goal. The team members also start to make significant progress
