Psychosocial Distress and Its Impact on Immune Modulation of Arbovirus Infection in Machala, Ecuador Denisse

Vega Ocasio, 2020 Aedes aegypti the mosquito that transmits arboviral diseases caused by dengue DENV chikungunya CHIKV and Zika viruses ZIKV is now present in nearly every tropical and subtropical region of the world. Individuals at risk of mosquito borne illness MBI in the urban tropics face daily demands linked to their socio environment conditions such as poor environmental conditions poverty crowding and limited access to adequate healthcare. These demands can lead to stress events and potentially induce an acute phase physiological response. In this study we sought to investigate the role of socio ecological risk factors in distress symptoms and its impact on biological responses in individuals at risk of MBI in Machala Ecuador. Between 2017-2019 individuals 18 years with suspected arbovirus DENV ZIKV CHIKV DCZ illness from sentinel clinics in Machala Ecuador entered this study. Index cases n=28. Cluster investigations of the household of the index cases and people from 4 houses within a 200 m radius of index home associate cases n=144 were conducted. Total n=172. Hair samples were collected and cortisol concentrations were measured as a stress marker using enzyme linked immunosorbent assay ELISA. Blood samples were collected and ELISA was used to measure the expression of serum inflammatory cytokines IL-10 IL-8 TNF and TGF associated with innate immune responses. Measures of association odds ratios and chi squares were computed to understand the distribution of socio health metrics related to PSS HCC and innate responses. We found that housing conditions influence people's perceived stress and cortisol levels in households at high risk of DCZ. Distribution of inflammatory cytokines was associated with the restorative phase of immune response seen higher in individuals reporting low/moderate levels of cortisol concentrations. We suggest that cortisol can dampen pro-inflammatory responses and influence activation of the restorative phase of the immune response as seen with changes in IL-10 levels. Qualitative results showed that individual's perception of stress in Machala is mainly related to community conflicts and access healthcare leading to individual's feeling ill. Further research should be conducted to understand the molecular mechanisms associated with stress response and how it might differ from individuals previously exposed to DCZ.
