

Notion of Introduction to Literature Chapter 3: Narration and Point of View: Selection Notes

100 pp. Study guide with annotations and organizational memory!

Section on p. 147:

Notes:

These notes are the structural analysis of introductory text, part of what we call genre that includes references, structures, and paragraphing that we do particularly mention. Note the use of general, multiple verbs.

Notes:

These emphasize the narrative use of language. Language that might be used to describe things and people, as well as the use of language to describe things and people in the world.

Point of view:

Notes on what is being or something is being, it refers to the fact that the text presents, several paragraphs that present.

Topic of Introduction:

What is a third person narrative? p. 170

That story told by the omniscient third person, i.e. narrator using "I" or "we" - "I" and "we" are the narrator's words that are being used. In other words, the narrator of the text appears to be the one who is telling the story from the inside.

What is meant by the term "omniscient narrator"? p. 170

It is a narrator who knows everything about the characters in the story and the events in the world of the characters.

What is meant by the term "subjective narrator"? p. 170

It is a narrator who is not omniscient. They show their knowledge and opinions about the characters and events in the story, but they are not trying to represent the world as it is.

What is a third person narrative? p. 170

It is a narrator who is not omniscient and is not trying to represent the world as it is. They show their knowledge and opinions about the characters and events in the story, but they are not trying to represent the world as it is.
