The Ideological Stamp Rima Malkawi, 2012 The aim of this book is to examine the way the ideological stamp manipulates the translation of political discourse in news media and how it affects accuracy in the translation process In the ideal world news media mainly news reports are expected to present information objectively in order to allow readers to make up their own minds However this book argues that translation particularly in the context of media discourse about Arab Muslim political affairs with the western world is not a mere linguistic tool of ideological manipulation The analysis reveals the critical role of ideology in manipulating the production of news reports The analysis also indicated that the inaccuracy and mistranslation of the extracted political samples of news reports are motivated by a wider perspective of political ideological editorial stance Consequently intentional and inaccurate news media translation of such nature must be distinguished from the mistranslation caused by the incompetence of the translator Back cover

Al Sowilem,2016 The aim of this thesis is to explore the interconnection between politics the media and translation with particular reference to the

Kingdom of Saudi Arabia KSA Agency and politics play an important role in both media and translation and this is particularly so in KSA For geopolitical reasons KSA realized it had to be media proactive to foster its emerging regional and global position Political discourse through the media is a complex phenomenon it is an institutional discourse that is also a media discourse but mediated politics In KSA newspapers still dominate the circulation of political discourse including its translation To this end six political texts from two different newspapers Aljazira in Arabic and the Saudi Gazette in English are analyzed according to the direct and oblique translation methods and their associated strategies as proposed by Vinay and Darbelnet 1995 The chosen texts deal with both local and international issues concerning KSA and are translated by the two newspapers The analysis indicates that translation from Arabic into English seems to use the two methods and their strategies more than translation from English into Arabic This is perhaps due to the constraints of the cultural context on the translation of political discourse in KSA Abstract The Role of Social Science in Law Elizabeth Mertz,2008 The legal system relies on social science for answers to many tough questions Social scientists study issues relevant to law But are law and social science talking past one another This collection of important articles and essays explores the difficult process of translation between these two fields drawing on three different scholarly perspectives the insider approach which views social science as a tool that lawyers can use for legal ends the outsider approach of the law and society or sociology of law movement and the study of the language of law Each section of the volume combines theoretical articles with specific empirical examples ranging from the death penalty through anti discrimination law to family violence
