Kenneth Burke, 1989-07-15 Kenneth Burke's innovative use of dramatism and dialectical method have made him a powerful critical force in an extraordinary variety of disciplines education philosophy history psychology religion and others While most widely acclaimed as a literary critic Burke has elaborated a perspective toward the study of behavior and society that holds immense significance and rich insights for sociologists This original anthology brings together for the first time Burke s key writings on symbols and social relations to offer social scientists access to Burke s thought In his superb introductory essay Joseph R Gusfield traces the development of Burke s approach to human action and its relationship to other similar sources of theory and ideas in sociology he discusses both Burke s influence on sociologists and the limits of his perspective Burke regards literature as a form of human behavior and human behavior as embedded in language His lifework represents a profound attempt to understand the implications for human behavior based on the fact that humans are symbol using animals As this volume demonstrates the work that Burke produced from the 1930s through the 1960s stands as both precursor and contemporary key to recent intellectual movements such as structuralism symbolic anthropology phenomenological and interpretive sociology critical theory and the renaissance of symbolic interaction

Hannah Arendt Simon Swift,2008-10-06 Studying one of the key thinkers of the twentieth century this new and welcome addition to the Routledge Critical Thinkers series examines the theories from Arendt s three main works offers explanations to the main claims of the works and presents a guide to her philosophical literary and cultural context

The Emerging Contours of the Medium Richard Müller, 2024-01-11

The Emerging Contours of the Medium explores a crucial aspect of media thinking focusing particularly on the mediality of literature, a medium that remains today on the margins of the theoretical discussion of media. The book was written by a collective of authors based in the Institute of Czech Literature, Czech Academy of Sciences, Czech Republic. Even though interest in the technological and media aspects of literature has been slowly building momentum in the past several decades from comparative perspectives to written culture to new media, the concept of the medium has not informed this process and its systematic integration into literary studies has never been effectively carried out. Nor has the specific mediality of literature been successfully integrated into the general concept of media. Literality in media science. Contributors to this work provide both an explanation of and a solution to this mutual blindness, setting out from the question: What are the conditions for elaborating a media theoretical framework in which to situate literature as a medium? The Emerging Contours of the Medium, available for the first time in English, is divided into three parts which correlate to the three main research areas of the principles for a media theory of literature. Part 1 develops a perspective of the pre-history of media thinking, grounding the principles of the genealogical integration. Part 2 concentrates on and develops the related perspectives of media philosophy and media anthropology. Part 3's main focus is the way media as dispositifs interlinking the parameters of perception and communication provide the ground for making emergent media phenomena visible, whether it be between media in their mutual synergy or discrepancies between media artefacts or between human and apparatus.
