The Community Food Forest Handbook Catherine Bukowski, John Munsell, 2018 Collaboration and leadership strategies for long term success Fueled by the popularity of permaculture and agroecology community food forests are capturing the imaginations of people in neighborhoods towns and cities across the United States Along with community gardens and farmers markets community food forests are an avenue toward creating access to nutritious food and promoting environmental sustainability where we live Interest in installing them in public spaces is on the rise People are the most vital component of community food forests but while we know more than ever about how to design food forests the ways in which to best organize and lead groups of people involved with these projects has received relatively little attention In The Community Food Forest Handbook Catherine Bukowski and John Munsell dive into the civic aspects of community food forests drawing on observations group meetings and interviews at over 20 projects across the country and their own experience creating and managing a food forest They combine the stories and strategies gathered during their research with concepts of community development and project management to outline steps for creating lasting public food forests that positively impact communities Rather than rehash food forest design which classic books such as Forest Gardening and Edible Forest Gardens address in great detail The Community Food Forest Handbook uses systems thinking and draws on social change theory to focus on how to work with diverse groups of people when conceiving of designing and implementing a community food forest To find practical ground the authors use management phases to highlight the ebb and flow of community capitals from a project s inception to its completion They also explore examples of positive feedbacks that are often unexpected but offer avenues for enhancing the success of a community food forest The Community Food Forest Handbook provides readers with helpful ideas for building and sustaining momentum working with diverse public and private stakeholders integrating assorted civic interests and visions within one project creating safe and attractive sites navigating community policies positively affecting public perception and managing site evolution and adaptation Its concepts and examples showcase the complexities of community food forests highlighting the human resilience of those who learn and experience what is possible when they collaborate on a shared vision for their community

Out Of Sight, Out Of Mind Yvonne Vissing, 2021-03-17 Because they're small they're easy to overlook Because their voices don't carry far it's hard to hear them We'd rather not look too closely or listen too carefully And if we don't see them maybe they'll just go away But the invisible homeless cannot simply fly away to never never land or pull themselves up by their bootstraps or make a wish upon a star These homeless people are children and they are not always in the inner cities as Yvonne Vissing shows in this poignant study of families housing and poverty As many as a third of our nation's homeless are found in rural and small town America They are all too commonly out of sight and out of mind Homelessness in small towns and rural areas is on the rise Drawing on interviews with and case studies of three hundred children and their families with supporting statistics from federal state and private agencies Vissing illustrates the impact this social problem has upon education health and the economy Families vividly describe the ways they have fallen through cracks in the social structure from home ownership into homelessness Looking toward the future Vissing asks if homeless children are destined to become dysfunctional adults and provides a sixteen year old girl's moving testimony of the vagabond life her homeless family led While the economy and the very nature of the family have changed over past decades housing education and human service industries have failed to adapt Vissing provides a planning model for improving support networks within communities and challenges Americans with a fundamental philosophical question Do homeless children merit fullscale social intervention Ultimately Out of Sight Out of Mind compels us not merely to voice concerns for family and community values but also to assert this commitment consciously through improved essential services

The Changing American Countryside Emery N. Castle, 1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns As a result the real rural America remains much misunderstood neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike In response Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands These authors examine the role of non metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty industry the environment education family social problems ethnicity race religion gender government public policy and regional diversity The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture It is in fact highly diverse complex and interdependent with urban America and the international market place Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one fourth of our population and ninety seven per cent of our land area is rural Together these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life Resources in Education, 1993 Transportation Planning Handbook ITE (Institute of Transportation Engineers), Michael D. Wood, 2008 Shows how small farming communities the heart and soul of America are both besieged and determined to survive and reveals through vivid storytelling how the future of America is being played out on the high plains of Kansas The Rural Midwest Since World War II Joseph Leslie Anderson, 2014 J L Anderson seeks to change the belief that the Midwest lacks the kind of geographic coherence historical issues and cultural touchstones that have informed regional identity in the American South West and Northeast The goal of this illuminating volume is to demonstrate uniqueness in a region that has always been amorphous and is increasingly so Midwesterners are a dynamic people who shaped the physical and social landscapes of the great midsection of the nation and they are presented as such in this volume that offers a general yet informed overview of the region after World War II The contributors most of whom are Midwesterners by birth or residence seek to better understand a particular piece of rural America a place too often caricatured misunderstood and ignored However the rural landscape has experienced agricultural diversity and major shifts in land use Farmers in the region have successfully raised new commodities from dairy and cherries to mint and sugar beets The region has also been a place where community leaders fought to improve their economic and social well being women redefined their roles on the farm and minorities asserted their own version of the American Dream The rural Midwest is a regional melting pot and contributors to this volume do not set out to sing its praises or by contrast assume the position of Midwestern modesty and self deprecation The essays herein rewrite the narrative of rural decline and crisis and show through solid research and impeccable scholarship that rural Midwesterners have confronted and created challenges uniquely their own Cultivating Congress William Paul Browne,1995 The American Congress in the mid 1990s remains the object of voter discontent Public outcries against special interests and unresponsive incumbents have amplified an already pervasive scepticism towards Beltway politics The book covers policy towards agricultural issues in particular The Rural Educator ,2005 Farm Foundation Annual Report Farm Foundation (Chicago, Ill.),1986 Seeing Nature Through Gender Virginia Scharff,2003 Environmental history has traditionally told the story of Man and Nature Scholars have too frequently overlooked the ways in which their predominantly male subjects have themselves been shaped by gender Seeing Nature through Gender here reintroduces gender as a meaningful category of analysis for environmental history showing how women s actions desires and choices have shaped the world and seeing men as gendered actors as well In thirteen essays that show how gendered ideas have shaped the ways in which people have represented experienced and consumed their world Virginia Scharff and her coauthors explore interactions between gender and environment in history Ranging from colonial borderlands to transnational boundaries from mountaintop to marketplace they focus on historical representations of humans and nature on questions about consumption on environmental politics and on the complex reciprocal relations among human bodies and changing landscapes They also challenge the ecofeminist position by challenging the notion that men and women are essentially different creatures with biologically different destinies Each article shows how a person or group of people in history have understood nature in gendered terms and acted accordingly often with dire consequences for other people and organisms Here are considerations of the ways we study sexuality among birds of William Byrd s masking sexual encounters in his account of an eighteenth century expedition of how the ecology of fire in a changing built environment has reshaped firefighters own gendered identities Some are playful as in a piece on the evolution of snow bunnies to shred betties Others are dead serious as in a chilling portrait of how endocrine disrupters are reinventing humans animals and water systems from the cellular level out Aiding and adding significantly to the enterprise of environmental history Seeing Nature through Gender bridges gender history and environmental history in unexpected ways to show us how the natural world can remake the gendered patterns we ve engraved on ourselves and on the planet NAFTA and the Campesinos Juan M. Rivera,Scott Whiteford,Manuel Chávez Márquez,2009 The North American Free Trade Agreement or NAFTA has been one of the most hotly contested political and economic issues of the past 20 years Contrary to much of the discussion in the U S media this volume examines small family farms in Mexico which have fared worse economically since NAFTA s passage A distinguished group of contributors provide historical background policy analysis case studies comparisons with large agribusiness corporations and recommendations for ways to improve the situation of small farms in the future This volume will be essential to the understanding of multinational trade issues and agriculture in the twenty first century
