Jan Patočka Erazim Kohák,1989-08-15 One of the most important Central European philosophers of this century Jan Patočka 1907-77 was a student and heir of Masaryk Husserl and Heidegger as well as a philosopher and historian of ideas in his own right Patočka who was forced to retire prematurely from Charles University in Prague for his political convictions died of a brain hemorrhage while under Czech police interrogation for having signed the human rights manifesto Charta 77 Although many of his works are available in French and German in this volume Erazim Koh k has translated Patočka s central philosophical texts into English for the first time As a student and personal friend of Husserl Patočka was keenly aware of the focal role of reason in the constitution of experienced reality Simultaneously as a student of Heidegger he was no less aware of the irreducible autonomy of that reality This double recognition led Patočka on a lifelong philosophical quest for a synthesis that would bridge modernity s split between the freedom of humans and the givenness of the world and more broadly between the Enlightenment and romanticism For the philosophical reader Patočka s perceptive writings provide the most helpful key to understanding the basic modern dialogue acted out by Husserl and Heidegger Yet Patočka widely respected for his writings on culture and the arts as well as for his studies of J A Comenius and the history of science offers much more a comprehensive attempt to come to terms with our intellectual heritage and our divided present Koh k as well as translating the writings provides a comprehensive introduction covering the full scope of Patočka s thought and a complete bibliography of his writings The result is an intellectually rich volume equally well suited as an introduction to Patočka an advanced study in phenomenology and a historical insight into philosophy behind the Iron Curtain since 1938

Good Hardware ,1929 Scripting Revolution Keith Michael Baker,Dan Edelstein,2015-10-07 The Arab Spring was heralded and publicly embraced by foreign leaders of many countries that define themselves by their own historic revolutions

The contributors to this volume examine the legitimacy of these comparisons by exploring whether or not all modern revolutions follow a pattern or script. Traditionally historians have studied revolutions as distinct and separate events. Drawing on close familiarity with many different cultures, languages and historical transitions, this anthology presents the first cohesive historical approach to the comparative study of revolutions. This volume argues that the American and French Revolutions provided the genesis of the revolutionary script that was rewritten by Marx, which was revised by Lenin and the Bolshevik Revolution, which was revised again by Mao and the Chinese Communist Revolution. Later revolutions in Cuba and Iran improvised further. This script is once again on display in the capitals of the Middle East and North Africa and it will serve as the model for future revolutionary movements.

Significant new developments in brain activity research have revived the debate on the universality of language and its neural basis. Within this debate, the question of language diversity and its implications for cognition remains central and controversial. It is here investigated in an original multimodal approach covering various aspects of cross-linguistic variation: differences between spoken, signed and drum languages; between normal speech and pathological speech; and also between language and music as revealed in electric brain activity associated with language processing. The various contributions—linguistic, anthropological, psychological and neurophysical—on the nature and status of variation and invariants in language provides evidence for complex interactions between language-specific processes and general cognitive faculties. This overview of some recent trends in cognitive linguistics opens up a promising new research area in the humanities as well as in the cognitive sciences.
