The Economic Development Process in the Middle East and North Africa Alessandro Romagnoli, Luisa Mengoni, 2013-11-12 Offering a comprehensive analysis of the development of economies in the Middle East and North Africa over the past half century this book charts the progress of these countries through an examination of an Islamic model of economic development reform processes and economic integration Far from being a simple process economic development in the Middle East and North Africa is dependent on the interaction of a set of changing systems including international relations the political regime economy and society By analysing these interdependent factors The Economic Development Process in MENA seeks to provide answers to the most pressing issues facing the economies in this area Providing an interpretation of regional development in light of dialectics between state and society this book will be of value to students and scholars with an interest in the Middle East Economics and International Relations

Economic Development: Tenth Edition Michael P. Todaro, Stephen C. Smith, Economic Development Michael P. Todaro, Stephen C. Smith, 2006 Todaro and Smith believe that development economics should foster a student's ability to understand real problems faced by developing countries Unlike other texts Economic Development introduces economic models within the context of countries and issues so that students learn to analyze and engage in the ongoing policy debates Praised for its even balanced coverage the text helps students to evaluate issues using the best available cross sectional data economic theory and institutional and structural perspectives Keeping pace with current data and events the Ninth Edition includes the latest research in development as well as extensive country specific examples of topics such as transition economics and urban policy Reorganization from four parts to three provides a more streamlined sequencing for economic development courses All new country case studies target pertinent issues such as Divergent Development Pakistan and Bangladesh and Understanding a Development Miracle China Thoroughly updated and revised comparison case studies provide the most current illustrations of policy and its outcomes major development organizations New research on rural development economics and the green revolution in Chapter 9 Extended coverage of non governmental organizations and how they compare with government and private sectors in Chapter 11 Political Economy and the Roles of Market Chapter 14 takes a critical look at the World Bank and the burden of debt

Female Labour Force Participation and Economic Development in West Papua Julius Ary Mollet, 2011-01-18 This volume includes a considerable amount of material to provide a clear structure to a most wide ranging and complex set of materials concerning female labour in West Papua This is one of the most innovative and useful books published about the female labour supply in developing countries in recent years This book provides an empirical analysis of indigenous and non indigenous female labour and economic development in West Papua Following a conceptual introduction which critically examines the theoretical debates of female labour supply and economic development the book is structured around four key issues of female labour which the author identifies as being the central determinants of female labour force participation and economic development These key processes are the women at work and development determinants of female labour participation employment patterns of indigenous and non indigenous women in West Papua time allocation of employed women and comparison of women s employment before and after Special Autonomy for West Papua Multidisciplinary Journal of Research Development ,2005

Macroeconomic Determinants of Economic Growth in Ethiopia. A Vector Correction Model Asmamaw Kassahun Agdew,2019-10-07 Thesis M A from the year 2016 in the subject Economics Case Scenarios grade 3 89 language English abstract The main objective of this study is to investigate the macroeconomic determinants of economic growth in Ethiopia from 1974 2014 A Vector Error Correction Model VECM to cointegration approach is applied in order to investigate the long run and short run relationship between real GDP and its macroeconomic determinants The finding of the cointegration test shows that there is a stable long run relationship between real GDP gross domestic saving labor human capital export FDI foreign aid and external debt The long run empirical result reveals gross domestic saving human capital proxied by government expenditure on health and education and labor force have positive and significant relationship with real output However export and real GDP have positive but insignificant relationship External debt foreign aid and FDI have negatively significant relationship with real GDP during the study period The short run dynamic results shows that human capital saving and FDI have positive relationship with output growth whereas labor export aid and external debt have negative relationship with Real GDP The coefficient of equilibrating error term ECM suggests that the speed of adjustment feedback effect towards the long run equilibrium takes few years for full adjustment when there is a shock in the system In order to sustain long run growth the government or policy makers should design appropriate policies that results in the efficient use of resources contributing to economic growth and proper management of variables resulting to negative growth in order to reverse their effect on output

Normative Conditions to Make WTO Law More Responsive to the Needs of Developing Countries Philipp Scheuermann,2010 Development theories and their relevance in Romania's past and present context Enikő - Júlia Kádár,2019-03-29 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2018 in the subject Economics Economic Cycle and Growth grade 10 00 Babe Bolyai Universit language English abstract Although Romania is considered one of the fastest growing economies with favourable prospects for the future the country is lagging far behind other European countries on issues such as the quality of healthcare and education systems levels of corruption macroeconomic stability and environmental safety The aim of this thesis is to provide an ensemble view of the factors that actually determine how advanced a country is by analysing the main Development Theories provided in the literature and determining their significance in Romania s past and present context

This is done by first presenting each theory in detail to ensure an understanding of the various dimensions and factors that should be taken into account in the assessment of any nation's level of development followed by an examination tailored specifically to Romania's context of the four domains of sustainable development: economics, politics, society, culture, and ecology through the consolidation of relevant statistical data and bibliographical information. The findings of the paper highlight the fact that Romania's overall development is not equivalent to its economic growth as the latter does not necessarily reflect the population's welfare. For the country to be considered advanced from other points of view, as well as authorities should not fail to recognize that attracting and retaining foreign investment, encouraging entrepreneurship, increasing the national budgets for education, health care, and infrastructure improvement, tackling the serious ongoing problem of corruption and lack of institutional transparency, and strengthening environmental awareness and independence are all factors that have an important role in defining Romania's current level of development and in providing future generations with further opportunities.

Globalization and Africa's Economic Development Nigerian Economic Society. Conference, 2004     The Nigerian Journal of Development Studies, 2009     History of Aid to Laos Viliam Phraxayavong, 2009 Originally presented as Thesis Ph D University of Sydney 2007     Development Ethics as Recognition Kwang-Su Mok, 2009     Case Studies in Economic Development Stephen C. Smith, 1994     Economic Development and Inequality in China Hong Yu, 2011

The conventional belief that all regions have equally benefited from China's remarkable development over the last three decades is subjected to criticism in this book as Hong Yu systematically analyses the issue of regional inequality during the post 1978 period using the case of Guangdong. Guangdong is one of the key industrial centres and economic powerhouses in China and as a pioneer province instigating economic reform as China opened up to the world it offers an ideal focus upon which to question and enrich the Western theories of economic geography and regional disparity. Based on field research, analysis of geographic characteristics, and regression models, this book illustrates how Guangdong's impressive development record has been marred by its rising regional disparity. It investigates the main causes of this disparity and draws conclusions regarding the lessons China can learn from it. Economic Development and Inequality in China will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese economics, Chinese regional studies, economic geography, and China Studies. Hong Yu is a Visiting Research Fellow at the National University of Singapore. His research interests lie in the field of regional economy. He is the author of a chapter on China's two delta regions in the book China and The Global Economic Crisis     Peacebuilding and Sustainable Human Development Ayesah Uy Abubakar, 2019-01-07

This book presents the protracted right to self-determination conflict between the Philippine state and the Bangsamoro group in Mindanao, Philippines. In the five decades of attempts to achieve peace, a key element is the Bangsamoro's search for a kind of development that is compatible with their aspirations for freedom and their future. This book presents a study of the Bangsamoro communities and their social constructions of conflict, peace, and development. It examines the viability of the sustainable human development framework for application in their challenging realities The usefulness of the sustainable human development framework lies not only in its use of human development parameters like the Human Development Index It also provides an approach towards development that synergizes with the sustainable peace framework an imperative for Mindanao At the centre of this approach is the Participatory Rural Appraisal and Participatory Learning and Action methodology for eliciting responses stimulating discussion documenting verbal and non verbal ideas and carrying out small scale projects to demonstrate community participation The book concludes with two main points that a both sustainable human development and peacebuilding are mutually reinforcing frameworks aimed at achieving the same human development goals and b the pursuit of the right to self determination is enhanced as both frameworks are combined to provide a context for the attainment of peace in Mindanao

The Development Economics Reader Giorgio Secondi,2008 This book draws together the most authoritative articles on development economics published in the past few years is aimed at undergraduate level and is suitable for students with little or no background in economics The main themes include poverty foreign aid agriculture and human capital and amongst those whose work appears cannot be counted Amartya Sen Jeffrey Sachs Jagdish Bhagwati Joseph Stiglitz Paul Romer Dani Rodrik William Easterly Robert Barro Kenneth Arrow Hernando de Soto Daron Acemoglu Muhammad Yunus Anne Krueger Abhijit Banerjee Esther Duflo Michael Kremer and Martin Feldstein The reader focuses on the most recent and up to date contributions to the field of development economics Instead of collecting classic contributions which are already available through many sources the articles chosen reflect recent developments in the discipline for instance in the area of geography and development and include contributions that address recent events the dramatic resurgence of a debt relief movement The Development Economics Reader should be an invaluable resource for all students of the discipline

Informal Financial Sector and Sustainable Development in Nigeria ,2005 Economic Thought from Smith to Keynes Takashi Negishi,2000 Modern theory has greatly influenced our reading of the history of economics This third volume of Negishi s essays gathers together some of his most significant contributions to this subject drawing as much from seminal works as from material now rarely obtainable These essays reconsider economic thought in the light of modern theory from Smith to Marx and from Marshall to Keynes Takashi Negishi discusses contributions made both in classical school and marginal revolution literature which are still significant to modern economic theory and those heralding from Japan which have lacked exposure in the West This volume will appeal not only to scholars in the history of economic thought but more generally will interest those economists who are unsatisfied with the current state of economics
