Gabriel's Monologue from When the Rain Stops Falling by Andrew Bovell

GABRIEL: I wish I could say yes. I wish I could say that I remember the touch of his bristles on my face, or the scent of his aftershave. But I remember none of that. What I remember is his absence and my mother's silence. All I have are his post-cards. And they don't make much sense. They're full of wild predictions about the weather and the end of the world. In one he wrote that he had seen a vision of a fish falling from the sky and the earth being covered by water. The last postcard was sent from the desert. (from memory) 'Dear Son, in the desert, on a clear night, if you know where to look, you can see the planet Saturn. The word planet derives from the Greek and means wanderer. Saturn is named after the Roman god who devoured his own son. Forgive me. Your loving father. P.S. There's snow falling here tonight.' And, no, it doesn't snow in the desert and fish don't fall out of the sky. And fathers don't leave their children and mothers don't drown themselves in the sea. (Beat.) So that's what I'm doing here. Trying to see what my father saw. Trying to think what he thought. Trying to understand why he went away.
