Doing History Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2015-01-30 Now in its fifth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades. Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum. The premise is that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry: collecting and analyzing data, examining the perspectives of people in the past, considering multiple interpretations, and creating evidence based historical accounts. Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature, art, writing, discussion and debate. The authors explain how the teaching demonstrated in the vignettes reflects basic principles of contemporary learning theory. Doing History emphasizes diversity of perspectives in two ways: readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and students themselves look at history from multiple perspectives. It provides clear guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children's learning.
