GRAMMAR

THE VERB

The verb is the most important word in a sentence. It tells us what is happening and who is doing it. Verbs can be used in many different ways, and it is important to know the rules for using them correctly.

Verb forms

Verbs are divided into two main groups: finite verbs and non-finite verbs.

- Finite verbs are verbs that can stand alone as the main verb in a sentence. They have a subject and an object, and they are used to form a complete sentence. Finite verbs are further divided into present tense and past tense.
- Non-finite verbs are verbs that cannot stand alone as the main verb in a sentence. They are used to form phrases and clauses, and they are used to describe actions that are happening at the same time as the main verb. Non-finite verbs are further divided into infinitives, gerunds, and participles.

Verb agreement

Verbs must agree with the subject of the sentence. This means that the verb must be in the same tense and number as the subject. For example, "He is going to the store" is correct, but "He are going to the store" is incorrect.

SENTENCES

A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought. Sentences are made up of words and phrases, and they are used to communicate information. Sentences can be simple, compound, or complex.

Simple sentences

A simple sentence consists of one independent clause. It has a subject and a predicate, and it expresses a complete thought. Examples of simple sentences include "The cat sat on the mat" and "She went to the store."

Compound sentences

A compound sentence consists of two or more independent clauses joined together by a coordinating conjunction (and, but, or, so, yet, for, nor). Each clause in a compound sentence can stand alone as a complete sentence. Examples of compound sentences include "The cat sat on the mat, and she went to the store" and "She went to the store, but she forgot her keys."

Complex sentences

A complex sentence consists of one independent clause and one or more dependent clauses. The dependent clause cannot stand alone as a complete sentence, but it adds information to the independent clause. Examples of complex sentences include "When she went to the store, she forgot her keys" and "The cat sat on the mat because she was hungry."

ADJECTIVES

Adjectives are words that describe nouns. They tell us what something is like, how much of something there is, or what kind of something it is. Adjectives can be used in many different ways, and they are an important part of a sentence.

Adjective placement

Adjectives are usually placed before the noun they describe. For example, "The red car was parked in the driveway." However, adjectives can also be placed after the noun, as in "The car was red and shiny."

ADVERBS

Adverbs are words that describe verbs, adjectives, or other adverbs. They tell us how, when, where, or how often something happens. Adverbs can be used in many different ways, and they are an important part of a sentence.

Adverb placement

Adverbs can be placed in many different positions in a sentence. They can be placed before or after the verb, before or after the adjective, or at the beginning or end of the sentence. For example, "She quickly ran to the store" and "The car was very red."

PREPOSITIONS

Prepositions are words that show the relationship between a noun and another word in a sentence. They are used to describe location, time, and direction. Prepositions are an important part of a sentence, and they are used in many different ways.

Preposition placement

Prepositions are usually placed before the noun they describe. For example, "The cat sat on the mat." However, prepositions can also be placed after the noun, as in "The mat was under the cat."

CONJUNCTIONS

Conjunctions are words that connect words, phrases, or clauses. They are used to show the relationship between different parts of a sentence. Conjunctions are an important part of a sentence, and they are used in many different ways.

Coordinating conjunctions

Coordinating conjunctions are used to connect two independent clauses. They are and, but, or, so, yet, for, and nor. Examples of coordinating conjunctions include "The cat sat on the mat, and she went to the store" and "She went to the store, but she forgot her keys."

Subordinating conjunctions

Subordinating conjunctions are used to connect a dependent clause to an independent clause. They are when, while, because, although, if, and since. Examples of subordinating conjunctions include "When she went to the store, she forgot her keys" and "The cat sat on the mat because she was hungry."

PRONOUNS & DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS

Pronouns are words that replace nouns. They are used to avoid repetition and to make sentences easier to read. Pronouns are an important part of a sentence, and they are used in many different ways.

Personal pronouns

Personal pronouns are used to refer to a person or thing. They are I, you, he, she, it, we, and they. Examples of personal pronouns include "I went to the store" and "She forgot her keys."

Demonstrative pronouns

Demonstrative pronouns are used to point to a specific person or thing. They are this, that, these, and those. Examples of demonstrative pronouns include "This is my car" and "Those are my keys."

SENTENCE FLUENCY & PARSING

Sentence fluency is the ability to use a variety of sentence structures to make writing more interesting and effective. Parsing is the process of breaking a sentence down into its constituent parts, such as the subject, verb, and object. Both sentence fluency and parsing are important skills for writers.

Improving sentence fluency

There are several ways to improve sentence fluency. One way is to use a variety of sentence structures, such as simple, compound, and complex sentences. Another way is to use a variety of punctuation marks, such as commas, semicolons, and dashes. Finally, it is important to read and listen to good writing, so that you can learn from the examples.

Parsing a sentence

To parse a sentence, you need to identify the subject, verb, and object of the sentence. The subject is the person or thing that is doing the action. The verb is the action itself. The object is the person or thing that is receiving the action. For example, in the sentence "The cat sat on the mat," "The cat" is the subject, "sat" is the verb, and "on the mat" is the object.
