ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

- 1.1 Computer architecture refers to those attributes of a system visible to a programmer or, put another way, those attributes that have a direct impact on the logical execution of a program. Computer organization refers to the operational units and their interconnections that realize the architectural specifications. Examples of architectural attributes include the instruction set, the number of bits used to represent various data types (e.g., numbers, characters), I/O mechanisms, and techniques for addressing memory. Organizational attributes include those hardware details transparent to the programmer, such as control signals; interfaces between the computer and peripherals; and the memory technology used.
- 1.2 Computer structure refers to the way in which the components of a computer are interrelated. Computer function refers to the operation of each individual component as part of the structure.
- 1.3 Data processing; data storage; data movement; and control.
- 1.4 Central processing unit (CPU): Controls the operation of the computer and performs its data processing functions; often simply referred to as processor.
Main memory: Stores data.
I/O: Moves data between the computer and its external environment.
System interconnection: Some mechanism that provides for communication among CPU, main memory, and I/O. A common example of system interconnection is by means of a system bus, consisting of a number of conducting wires to which all the other components attach.
- 1.5 Control unit: Controls the operation of the CPU and hence the computer
Arithmetic and logic unit (ALU): Performs the computer's data processing functions
Registers: Provides storage internal to the CPU

Euro Par Conference Series: The European Conference on Parallel Computing. Euro Par is an international conference series dedicated to the promotion and advancement of all aspects of parallel and distributed computing. The major themes fall into the categories of hardware, software, algorithms, and applications. This year, new and interesting topics were introduced like Peer-to-Peer Computing, Distributed Multimedia, Stems, and Mobile and Ubiquitous Computing. For the first time, we organized a Demo Session showing many challenging applications. The general objective of Euro Par is to provide a forum promoting the development of parallel and distributed computing both as an industrial technique and an academic discipline, extending the frontiers of both the state of the art and the state of the practice. The industrial importance of parallel and distributed computing is supported this year by a special Industrial Session as well as a vendors exhibition. This is particularly important as currently parallel and distributed computing is evolving into a globally important technology. The buzzword Grid Computing clearly expresses this move. In addition, the trend to a mobile world is clearly visible in this year's Euro Par. The main audience for and participants at Euro Par are researchers in academic departments, industrial organizations, and government laboratories. Euro Par aims to become the primary choice of such professionals for the presentation of new results in their specific areas. Euro Par has its own Internet domain with a permanent Web site where the history of the conference series is described: <http://www.euro-par.org>. The Euro Par conference series is sponsored by the Association for Computer Machinery (ACM) and the International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP).
