Educational Curricula Jennifer N. Casey, 2008 In formal education a curriculum plural curricula is the set of courses and their content offered at a school or university As an idea curriculum stems from the Latin word for race course referring to the course of deeds and experiences through which children grow and mature in becoming adults Crucial to the curriculum is the definition of the course objectives that usually are expressed as learning outcomes and normally include the program's assessment strategy. These outcomes and assessments are grouped as units or modules and therefore the curriculum comprises a collection of such units, each in turn comprising a specialised specific part of the curriculum. So a typical curriculum includes communications, numeracy, information technology and social skills units with specific specialised teaching of each. This book presents research on educational curricula from around the world.

Constructivist Approaches to Online Language Assessment Chadia Mansour, Agnieszka Palalas, Pakize Uludag, 2026-01-01. This volume presents the various aspects of the constructivist informed practice to online language assessment and illustrates its principles with real classroom examples and research. It informs language educators about how to understand design and apply online language assessment within the realms of socio-constructivism and its related theories and approaches such as socio-cultural theory (SCT) and ecological constructivism. The book showcases diverse constructivist assessment perspectives and illustrates how their designs vary depending on the unique characteristics and requirements of individual learning contexts. With chapter authors representing a range of countries and cultures, this book underscores the importance of respecting diverse educational and technological needs and circumstances. This volume appeals to a wide audience including language teachers, academics, researchers and instructional designers in online and blended education as well as across various industries. It is also of great value to school administrators, technology personnel, directors of teaching and learning centers and other stakeholders. Current Index to Journals in Education, 1997. Journal of the Pacific Circle Consortium for Education, 1998.
