Summary

Biotechnology, when thoughtfully applied (1988), has become an integral feature of the public's consciousness, health, and life. Issues such as food safety, genetically engineered foods, cloning, biotechnology and heredity impact and interact with the public's thoughts and actions, which in turn influence the development and acceptance of the biotechnology in various and complex manner.

Other authors' reports, biotechnology, heredity, in reality, is a collection of a set of techniques that involve the use of a variety of organisms that lead to various new body range of applications, in producing biomass, and in improving health care, food production, environmental quality, and consumer choice.

An understanding of cell cloning and culture has either preoccupied or intrigued its characteristics, its cultivation, and its functions, namely, its fundamental to its handling in the laboratory, and later its applications in the environmental, health, industrial, and medical sectors that contribute to human progress and welfare. The different articles covered by this paper focus on these basic issues, and on the application of microorganisms, plants, and animals. Moreover, a concise study on genetic engineering and recombinant DNA technology is provided. The utilization of genetic information in microbial, plant and animal cells is contributing to diverse products and uses, gene therapy, production of biopharmaceuticals within organisms, etc. There is not even one scenario that involves ethics and heredity. With the advancements of the new Biotechnology, Issues in Biotechnology, research in the food and health
