Television and the Public Sphere Peter Dahlgren,1995-10-01 In this broad ranging text Peter Dahlgren clarifies the underlying theoretical concepts of civil society and the public sphere and relates these to a critical analysis of the practice of television as journalism as information and as entertainment He demonstrates the limits and the possibilities of the television medium and the formats of popular journalism These issues are linked to the potential of the audience to interpret or resist messages and to construct its own meanings What does a realistic understanding of the functioning and the capabilities of television imply for citizenship and democracy in a mediated age Broadcast News Producing Brad Schultz,2004-08-03 Having worked closely with Brad Schultz I know he has important insights to pass along to students in the area of broadcast news production This seems to be a fairly comprehensive effort that covers many of the aspects of news production that other texts have ignored I think it will be a tremendous help to those who are interested in this part of the broadcast journalism industry Dr Joe Foote Arizona State University and Past President of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication Brad Schultz has brought his solid professional experience to bear in putting together a highly readable how to for students aspiring to take their place behind the camera Broadcast News Producing is full of useful tips as well as providing important grounding in the fundamentals of producing a successful newscast Beth E Barnes University of Kentucky Broadcast News Producing is one of the first comprehensive texts in its field While until now most broadcast journalism textbooks have been geared toward students who want careers on camera Broadcast News Producing goes behind the camera to teach students the hows and whys of putting together compelling news programs for television radio and the Internet This text lays the groundwork for good producing giving the reader an insider s perspective on newsroom structure and the producer s role It takes students step by step through the producing process providing a guide to putting together a successful newscast The book also addresses critical issues that face today s producers including ethics newsroom leadership staff management resource management newsroom relationships and career planning Key Features Combines the practical skills and techniques needed in today s broadcast news production with timely theoretical and ethical issues facing producers Serves as a guide to running campus radio and television programs complete with step by step instructions and examples on how to run a news program from start to finish Reinforces teaching points through graphics tables charts and photos Gives readers an insider's view of broadcast production through question and answer interviews with current and former broadcast news producers. Focuses separate sections on producing news programs for television, radio, and the Internet and on producing specialized broadcast news segments such as sports, weather, live reports, debates, roundtable discussions, and call-in shows. Broadcast News Producing is an ideal textbook for undergraduate journalism courses in broadcast news and mass communications. It is also recommended as a reference for secondary school and college newsrooms where it can be used as a guide to running a campus news program. Guide to Professional Radio & TV Newscasting Robert C. Robert Drew and the Development of Cinema Verite in America P.J. O'Connell, 2010-03-19. Author P. J. O'Connell traces Robert Drew's influence on cinema verite through extensive interviews with Drew and with some of the founding fathers of American cinema verite filmmaking: Donn Alan Pennebaker, Gregory Shuker, and Richard Leacock. Robert Drew's contributions to documentary film have been both technical and conceptual. Realizing that his equipment was too heavy and intrusive, Drew persuaded Time Life Broadcasting to sponsor the development of new, lightweight, portable, synchronous sound equipment that freed documentary filmmakers from the bulky tripod-mounted AC-powered equipment of the past. His new technology allowed him to capture intense moments as they happened and to make viewers feel personally involved in the events he presented. While making more than twenty documentaries in the early 1960s, Drew continued to initiate innovations that were not thought possible a generation before him. P. J. O'Connell is the executive producer of public affairs at Penn State Television and an affiliate assistant professor in the School of Communication at Penn State University.
