Introductory
Note

1.1 Introductory Note

This chapter presents the communication process. It describes the basic elements of the communication process and defines concepts. It also sheds light on forms of communication and basic characteristics of each form.

Lastly, the chapter reviews the contents that communication process is functioning within.

Our ability to communicate and the different forms our communication takes are very often taken for granted. The communication process is fundamental for human survival. It is essential to the development of the individual, to the formation and continued existence of groups and to the interrelations among groups.

Communication is as old as human history; many indicators prove that effective communication is the main factor enhancing civilization through history. This is why communication is considered multi-culture phenomena, Ancient-Greeks, Ancient-Egyptians, Ancient-Chinese, Arabs, Europeans and Americans have got their impact on communication.

On the other hand, the study of human communication is inter-disciplinary. It began with the mathematically theory of communication by Claude E. Shanon and Warren Weaver in 1949, scientists considered as strictly mathematical. Their aim was to measure the amount of information, in the mess ages, that is transmitted through the media on the telephone; however, as years passed by, inter-disciplinary approaches to study human communication came up. They rely on psychology, sociology, speech communication, political, journalism, anthropology management, education, marketing and philosophy. Thus, we can say that every discipline concerned with human behavior must deal with communication.

The question here is

What is communication?

There are many definitions of communication:
