

King Lear Summary

A long time ago, in ancient, pre-Christian Britain, King Lear decides it's time to retire—he's getting old and he's just not feeling as energetic as he once was. Besides, Lear wants to avoid any family or political conflict that might arise after his death (There's no male heir to inherit the throne when Lear dies and he doesn't want anyone duking it out over who gets to be king after he's gone.)

So, Lear decides it would be best to split up his kingdom between his three daughters—Cordelia, Goneril, and Regan. But first, Lear wants to play a little game called "Who can say she loves Daddy the most?" in order to determine which daughter will get the biggest piece of land. Because that's fair.

Goneril and Regan slobber all over themselves professing how much they love Lear (they don't really, by the way), but Cordelia (Lear's favorite and also the nicest of the bunch) refuses to play, insisting that words and language are insufficient to express the love she feels for her father. Lear takes this the wrong way and disowns Cordelia—he also refuses to give Cordelia a dowry for marriage, so she runs off and elopes with the King of France, who realizes that Cordelia's loving and kind.

Lear ends up dividing the kingdom in two between the wicked Goneril (who is married to the Duke of Albany) and the mean and nasty Regan (married to the Duke of Cornwall), announcing that he'll be splitting his time between Goneril's house and Regan's house. When Kent (Lear's main man) warns Lear that he's making a huge mistake, Lear banishes Kent from the kingdom.

Meanwhile, Shakespeare develops the play's sub-plot, which involves a guy named Gloucester, who's in the habit of running around town calling his illegitimate son, Edmund, a "bastard and cracking dirty jokes about Edmund's unmarried mom. It's no big surprise when Edmund begins to scheme against his dad and his half-brother Edgar, who is Gloucester's

Belknap s theory of plot illustrates the active and passive roles literature plays in creating its own dynamic reading experience Literary narrative enchants us through its development of plot but plot tells its own story about the making of narrative revealing through its structures preoccupations and strategies of representation critical details about how and when a work came into being Through a rich reading of Shakespeare s King Lear and Dostoevsky s Crime and Punishment Belknap explores the spatial chronological and causal aspects of plot its brilliant manipulation of reader frustration and involvement and its critical cohesion of characters He considers Shakespeare s transformation of dramatic plot through parallelism conflict resolution and recognition He then follows with Dostoevsky s development of the rhetorical and moral devices of nineteenth century Russian fiction along with its epistolary and detective genres to embed the reader in the murder Raskolnikov commits Dostoevsky s reinvention of the psychological plot was profound and Belknap effectively challenges the idea that the author abused causality to achieve his ideological conclusion In a final chapter Belknap argues that plots teach us novelistic rather than poetic justice Operating according to their own logic plots provide us with a compelling way to see and order our world
