The Looting Machine:

The Looting Machine Tom Burgis, 2015-03-24 The trade in oil gas gems metals and rare earth minerals wreaks havoc in Africa During the years when Brazil India China and the other emerging markets have transformed their economies Africa's resource states remained tethered to the bottom of the industrial supply chain While Africa accounts for about 30 per cent of the world's reserves of hydrocarbons and minerals and 14 per cent of the world's population its share of global manufacturing stood in 2011 exactly where it stood in 2000 at 1 percent In his first book The Looting Machine Tom Burgis exposes the truth about the African development miracle for the resource states it's a mirage The oil copper diamonds gold and coltan deposits attract a global network of traders bankers corporate extractors and investors who combine with venal political cabals to loot the states value And the vagaries of resource dependent economies could pitch Africa's new middle class back into destitution just as quickly as they climbed out of it The ground beneath their feet is as precarious as a Congolese mine shaft their prosperity could spill away like crude from a busted pipeline This catastrophic social disintegration is not merely a continuation of Africa's past as a colonial victim The looting now is accelerating as never before As global demand for Africa's resources rises a handful of Africans are becoming legitimately rich but the vast majority like the continent as a whole is being fleeced Outsiders tend to think of Africa as a great drain of philanthropy But look more closely at the resource industry and the relationship between Africa and the rest of the world looks rather different In 2010 fuel and mineral exports from Africa were worth 333 billion more than seven times the value of the aid that went in the opposite direction But who received the money For every Frenchwoman who dies in childbirth 100 die in Niger alone the former French colony whose uranium fuels France's nuclear reactors In petro states like Angola three quarters of government revenue comes from oil The government is not funded by the people and as result it is not beholden to them A score of African countries whose economies depend on resources are rentier states their people are largely serfs The resource curse is not merely some unfortunate economic phenomenon the product of an intangible force What is happening in Africa's resource states is systematic looting Like its victims its beneficiaries have names The Looting Machine Tom Burgis, 2015-02 The discovery of one of the world's most promising oil frontiers along Africa's west coast has seen the area touted as a prime investment destination But talk of the reinvention of a continent masks a more troubling truth The dirty trade in African resources has been grossly underreported We have failed to grasp the importance of African commodities in our daily lives be it the Guinean aluminium in our cutlery or the Nigerian petrol in our cars As our dependency on these resources increases the stories of those who live under their curse become all the more urgent In this vital and arresting book investigative journalist Tom Burgis hunts out the human stories both of the power brokers who run the looting machine and of those whose lives have been shattered by it discovering how the price of the raw ingredients that fuel the global economy is rightly measured not in dollars but in minds scarred and lives lost The Looting Machine: Warlords, found that between 2007 and 2010 32 billion had gone missing a sum greater than the gross domestic product of each of forty three African countries 4 In 2008 as Cobalt was negotiating exploration rights to put its theory about the potential of Angola s presalt oil frontier to the test the Angolans made a stipulation Cobalt would have to take two little known local companies as junior partners in the venture with a minority stake Natural Resource-Based Development in Africa Nathan Andrews,J.
