

Calibrating / Using the BRUNTON SHERPA

FIRST TIME SETTING - The SHERPA has a setting in the BARO mode and in the ALT mode that must be set before using the SHERPA for the first time.

BARO Mode Setting

1. Scroll to BARO mode.
 2. Press and hold the "SET" button until the display disappears (approximately 3 seconds), then release.
 3. A flashing altitude value indicates the SHERPA is waiting for a change.
 4. Change value by pressing the "UP/DOWN" button until it reaches the altitude at your location.
- * If your altitude is unknown, press "UP" button one time, and the SHERPA jumps to a calculated altitude.
* Remember, or document the setting value.

ALT Mode Setting

1. Scroll to ALT mode.
2. Press and hold the "SET" button until the display disappears (approximately 3 seconds), then release.
3. A flashing altitude value indicates the SHERPA is waiting for a change.
4. Match this altitude value with the altitude setting in the BARO mode.

Your SHERPA is now ready for use!

Note: The SHERPA uses pressure to calculate altitude. As the pressure changes so will the altitude, even if the SHERPA has not been relocated. See page 7 in the instruction manual. In a day, it is common for the altitude value to change by as much as 100 meters (approx. 300 ft.), due to a Low/High pressure system coming into the area.

Hint: Document the pressure before heading out. In BARO mode, watch the changes in pressure using the pressure history "bars". Each "bar" is divided into sections, and each "section" represents 2 mbars (2 hPa). Example: If the -2h history "bar" has 5 "sections" and the 0h history "bar" has 4 "sections" this indicates the pressure has dropped by 2 mbars. Now use the correlation on page 7 in the instruction manual (change of 1 mbar correlates to a change in 8 meters). Since the pressure dropped by 2 mbars, the altitude will have increased by 16 meters. If the pressure changes drastically, you may want to reset the altitude in the ALT mode.

RECALIBRATING THE PRESSURE SENSOR - If you have problems with altitude value, or the pressure value not reading correctly, your calibration setting may have been adjusted accidentally.

1. Scroll to ALT mode.
2. Press and hold the "RIGHT" button until the display disappears (approximately 10 seconds), then release.
3. A flashing pressure value indicates the SHERPA is waiting for a change.
4. Change this to 0.0 hPa (0.0 mbar).

If you make changes in this mode, you will have to reset the BARO, then the ALT mode again.

CHANGING TIME 12H / 24H

1. Scroll to ALT mode.
2. If the altitude units are in feet, the SHERPA displays time in a 12 hour format.
3. If the altitude units are in meters, it displays time in a 24 hour format.

ROTATING THE WIND IMPELLER

It is possible to rotate the small impeller, which will protect the impeller from dirt and debris. When ready to measure wind speed, just rotate until the wind has a straight line of sight through the instrument.

Indigenous Rights in the Modern Era Bertus de Villiers, 2023-06-26 International law is rich in promise but poor in detail and practical application about the rights of indigenous people This book focuses on practical measures that have been implemented in states to give effect to free prior and informed consent FPIC self-determination by indigenous people special electoral measures to benefit indigenous people and the role of advisory bodies to advocate for indigenous interests In many comparative works there are often only scant or brief reference to some country experiences but in this book several case studies are explored in depth to promote a greater understanding of the self-determination arrangements that have been implemented These case studies represent a form of glocalisation whereby global principles are applied to find local solutions and local solutions in turn inform greater clarity and specificity to global principles At the end of each chapter key lessons that can be drawn from the respective case studies are identified in the hope that those may inform developments in other countries and in international law
