

Deconstructing Standards Practice: Developing Learning Targets

MASTERING CURRICULUM MAPPING

Module 1 - B: Deconstructing the Standards – the First Step in the Process

Viewing Time: 60 minutes

Mastering Curriculum Mapping Module 1 - Activity 6

Once you have determined if a standard is a specific learning target, the next step is to begin breaking down the standards that are not. To do this, you will analyze each standard one by one. In the Module One video, you can see this task carried out by a work group who is going through the process of deconstructing the Common Core State Standards at the state level. Standards that are not specific and measurable and comprised of just one topic or skill must be deconstructed into learning targets.

Activity Objective(s):

1. Write learning targets that are specific and measurable.

Overview: In the last activity you practiced determining if a standard is a learning target. In this activity, you will practice what to do after making that determination. You will be assigned one standard from the Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts. This standard has been selected because it is comprised of more than one learning target and therefore needs to be deconstructed. Practicing this process will enable you to deconstruct your own standards depending on your needs at the individual, school, district, or state agency level.

Estimated Time to Complete Activity: 20 minutes

Materials: Developing Learning Targets Recording Tool

Step 1: Recall what you have learned about developing learning targets from Module 1.

Step 2: Review the information from the Summary and Overview section, Chart 1 and Chart 2 (on the Developing Learning Targets Recording Tool pages three through six).

Step 3: Practice deconstructing the provided standard into multiple learning targets. The selected standard is already filled in for you in box 1 (on the Developing Learning Targets Recording Tool pages three through six). Complete the remaining parts of Chart 3 (pages seven and eight).
