Action Research for Sustainability Jonas Egmosen,2015-02-28 How can action research further new research orientations towards sustainability This book empirically situated in the field of upstream public engagement involving local residents researchers and practitioners in bottom up processes deliberating on urban sustainability answers this question by analysing processes of social learning The book addresses the need to move towards sustainability at societal level as a democratic challenge questioning the way we live on planet earth By conceptualising sustainability as an immanent and emergent ability of ecological and social life continuously to renew itself without eroding its own foundation of existence it argues that since sustainability cannot be invented but only supported or eroded by science we need to reframe science in the role of sustaining sustainability Through analyses of a three year action research programme aiming to provide local citizens with a greater say in the future of urban sustainability research this book shows how action research can make important methodological contributions to processes of social learning between citizens and scientists by enabling free spaces in peoples everyday life and within academia where aspects of sustainability can be addressed and new imaginations of more sustainable futures emerge

Handbook of Research on Transformative and Innovative Pedagogies in Education Keengwe, Jared,2022-05-13 Various pedagogies such as the use of digital learning in education have been used and researched for decades but many schools have little to show for these initiatives This contrasts starkly with technology supported initiatives in other fields such as business and healthcare Traditional pedagogies and general digital technology applications have yet to impact education in a significant way that transforms learning A primary reason for this minimal impact on learning is that digital technologies have attempted to make traditional instructional processes more efficient rather than using a more appropriate paradigm for learning As such it is important to look at digital technology as a partner and use transformative applications to become partners with students not teachers to empower their learning process both in and out of school The Handbook of Research on Transformative and Innovative Pedagogies in Education is a comprehensive reference that identifies and justifies the paradigm of transformative learning and pedagogies in education It provides exemplars of existing transformative applications that if used as partners to empower student learning have the potential to dramatically engage students in a type of learning that better fits 21st century learners Covering topics such as gamification project based learning and professional development this major reference work is an essential resource for pre service and in service teachers educational technologists instructional designers educational administration and faculty researchers and academicians seeking pedagogical models that inspire students to learn meaningfully
