What do you think? What is the effect of population growth?

What is the effect of population growth?

What does population growth do? It increases the number of individuals in a population. This leads to a higher density of individuals, which can affect the availability of resources and the intensity of competition. Population growth can also lead to a higher frequency of mutations, which can drive evolution. In a well-mixed population, the effect of population growth is to increase the genetic diversity of the population. This is because more individuals are available to undergo genetic recombination and to pass on their genes to the next generation. Population growth can also lead to a higher frequency of deleterious mutations, which can reduce the fitness of the population. However, population growth can also lead to a higher frequency of beneficial mutations, which can increase the fitness of the population. The overall effect of population growth on a population depends on the specific circumstances.
