

Data is all the information and measurements that are collected by scientists from textbooks, encyclopedias, journals and the internet, or from carrying out their own investigations. Internet reaction times

How fast can you react?

Do this ...

- 1 Use the key words reflex tester or reaction time in your internet search engine to find interactive games that will measure your reaction time.
- 2 Although most of the games involve detecting a change in colour of the web page, some shoot tranquiliser guns into sheep while in others you play baseball! Try as many as you can to determine your average reaction time.

Record this ...

- 1 Describe what happened.
- 2 Explain why you think this happened.

Data

Data is the term given to all the observations and measurements that can be used to describe something. For example, you can be described by your personal data. This includes your height and weight, your hair, skin and eye colour, when and where you were born, the names of your parents and distinguishing features such as a scar or birthmark. Data on the parrot in Figure 1.1.1 would include its colour, sex, body temperature and the type of nest it makes.

FIGURE 1.1.1 Data on this parrot would include its size and mass, the environment it lives in, the number of tail feathers it has, the average number of eggs it lays and the age at which it first flies.
