Introduction

Design variables provide a method for specifying critical parameters just before a simulation. This allows you to make quick changes to parameter values across single or multiple critical components without having to edit any schematic components. Design variables can also be used in simple parametric analysis, which can change a design variable across a range of values and display multiple simulation results on a single plot.

Using Design Variables

This part of the tutorial will show you how to parametrize the width of the NOZZLE and FLANGE members of an aircraft by using design variables. These variable values are then set using the Running Through Environment panel in simulation.

1. Make a copy of the aircraft with subassemblies you have previously designed, or create a new one.
2. Open the subassemblies of the aircraft.
3. Edit each one of the NOZZLE subassemblies to adjust it, and name the parameter by using clicking on it and entering PROPAGATION. For you can press "q" as a shortcut.
4. Define the rest of the width from width to width. This specifies that a variable called width will be used to set the width of the NOZZLE. When you do this, observe that values for "Threat/Minimum Difference Keys" change from a constant value to a formula that involves the variable width. Always check to make sure that formula is updated when you change the width to a variable otherwise, your simulation results will be incorrect. Click OK to apply the change.
5. Repeat this procedure to change the width of the FLANGE to width.
6. Select Check => Check and name. Verify that there are no errors.
7. Launch the Analysis Running Through Environment.
8. Set up the simulation environment as you normally would for simulating a schematic. This includes specifying a simulation file and transient run length, creating the ANSYS mesh reader in the environment options, and selecting the compute to be plotted on the schematic.
9. In ANSYS, select Variables => Copy User-defined. The design variables width and prop should appear in the Design Variables area of the Running Environment window.
10. In ANSYS, select Variables => Value. In the value box, type 1 and then apply the value by clicking Apply. Change the value of prop to 0.01 and click Apply. Check the values have been assigned, click OK. See Figure 1 and 2 below.
11. In ANSYS, use the connection by selecting Simulation => Variable and Run. After loading the the simulation to complete, the results window will pop-up. The results should be
