Psychological Influence In Negotiation An Introduction:

Psychological Influence in Negotiation Deepak Malhotra, Max H. Bazerman, Harvard Business School, 2008 This paper discusses the causes and consequences of the surprisingly limited extent to which social influence research has penetrated the field of negotiation and then presents a framework for bridging the gap between these two literatures The paper notes that one of the reasons for its limited impact on negotiation research is that extant research on social influence focuses almost exclusively on economic or structural levers of influence With this in mind the paper seeks to achieve five objectives 1 Define the domain of psychological influence as consisting of those tactics which do not require the influencer to change the economic or structural aspects of the bargaining situation in order to persuade the target 2 Review prior research on behavioral decision making to identify ideas that may be relevant to the domain of psychological influence 3 Provide a series of examples of how behavioral decision research can be leveraged to create psychological influence tactics for use in negotiation 4 Consider the other side of influence i e how targets of influence might defend against the tactics herein considered and 5 Consider some of the ethical issues surrounding the use of psychological influence in negotiation

The Hastings Law Journal ,2013 The Psychology of Leadership David M. Messick,Roderick M. Kramer,2004-09-22
In this book some of the world s leading scholars come together to describe their thinking and research on the topic of the psychology of leadership Most of the chapters were originally presented as papers at a research conference held in 2001 at the Kellogg School of Management of Northwestern University The contributions span traditional social psychological areas as well as organizational theory examining leadership as a psychological process and as afforded by organizational constraints and opportunities The editors goal was not to focus the chapters on a single approach to the study and conceptualization of leadership but rather to display the diversity of issues that surround the topic Leadership scholars have identified a host of approaches to the study of leadership What are the personal characteristics of leaders What is the nature of the relation between leaders and followers Why do we perceive some people to be better leaders than others What are the circumstances that evoke leadership qualities in people Can leadership be taught And so on The contributions to this book examine these important questions and fall into three categories conceptions of leadership factors that influence the effectiveness of leadership and the consequences and effects of leadership on the leader All in all the chapters of this volume display part of a broad spectrum of novel and important approaches to the study of the psychology of leadership We hope that they are equally useful to those who are or would be leaders and to those who study the topic As recent events have served to remind us it is too important a topic to be ignored by psychologists Business Periodicals Index ,2008 An Introduction to Social Psychology Miles Hewstone,Wolfgang Stroebe,Klaus Jonas,2012-05-14 The fifth edition of this highly successful text An Introduction to Social Psychology has been fully revised and updated Accessibility for students has been improved including better illustrations greater use of colour and a more approachable format as well as a wealth of online resources Combining its traditional academic rigour with a contemporary level of cohesion accessibility pedagogy and instructor support the fifth edition of An Introduction to Social Psychology provides the definitive treatment of social psychology International Negotiations, Social Psychological Aspects Amos Lakos,1988 A Social Psychology of

The Social Psychology of Party Behaviour Anna Triandafyllidou, 1997 This book offers a new approach for the analysis of party campaigning The author reviews critically social psychological theories regarding social influence and inter group relations in order to construct new analytical categories suitable for the study of party behaviour in campaigning The focus of the research is on the strategies and styles of behaviour adopted by small or large parties in electoral propaganda or negotiation The theoretical and methodological approach proposed is applied on a case study regarding Greek politics The findings are discussed against the background of experimental studies on social group influence The book shows the importance of adopting an interdisciplinary approach for the study of party behaviour It highlights the social psychological mechanisms underlying election campaigns and develops new tools for the analysis of political reality

Attracted to Conflict: Dynamic Foundations of Destructive Social Relations Robin R. Vallacher, Peter T. Coleman, Andrzej Nowak, Lan Bui-Wrzosinska, Larry Liebovitch, Katharina Kugler, Andrea Bartoli, 2014-07-08 Conflict is inherent in virtually every aspect of human relations from sport to parliamentary democracy from fashion in the arts to paradigmatic challenges in the sciences and from economic activity to intimate relationships Yet it can become among the most serious social problems humans face when it loses its constructive features and becomes protracted over time with no obvious means of resolution This book addresses the subject of intractable social conflict from a new vantage point Here these types of conflict represent self organizing phenomena emerging quite naturally from the ongoing dynamics in human interaction at any scale from the interpersonal to the international Using the universal language and computational framework of nonlinear dynamical systems theory in combination with recent insights from social psychology intractable conflict is understood as a system locked in special attractor states that constrain the thoughts and actions of the parties to the conflict The emergence and maintenance of attractors for conflict can be described by means of formal models that incorporate the results of computer simulations experiments field research and archival analyses Multi disciplinary research reflecting these approaches provides encouraging support for the dynamical systems perspective Importantly this text presents new views on conflict resolution In contrast to traditional approaches that tend to focus on basic short lived cause effect relations the dynamical perspective emphasizes the temporal patterns and potential for emergence in destructive relations Attractor deconstruction entails restoring complexity to a conflict scenario by isolating elements or changing the feedback loops among them The creation of a latent attractor trades on the tendency toward multi stability in dynamical systems and entails the consolidation of incongruent positive elements into a coherent structure In the bifurcation scenario factors are identified that can change the number and types of attractors in a conflict scenario The implementation of these strategies may hold the key to unlocking intractable conflict creating the potential for constructive

1 Willem Doise, Serge Moscovici, 1983-12 Introductory Psychology Kassir, 1998 The Discourse of Negotiation A. Firth, 1995 This text is about how people in workplaces act in concert in attempts to decide upon agreeable courses of action. Such acts are glossed as negotiation. Negotiations are not solely the domain of business leaders, politicians, and diplomats; they are activities that permeate and uphold our daily lives. Working lives included. This text takes the position that negotiation implies collective decision making and in this sense almost anything is potentially negotiable, including obligations, information, decisions, services, status, territory, and public image. Negotiation requires complex interaction with one's fellow actors and the pursuance of potentially conflicting goals. Thus, virtually all human activity provides a setting for the delicate process of negotiation. The question this book seeks to answer is: how are negotiations undertaken as discourse activities? The text provides detailed descriptions of the manifold instances of negotiation that occur in the modern workplace. It shows how discourse and context mutually configure and how people, as advertising agents, exporters, lawyers, travel agents, doctors, and bureaucrats, carry out the work tasks they are paid to do.
