

12. The grass and species names are collectively referred to as the scientific name. It is written in a Latin format as binomial nomenclature, a two-part Latin naming system. There are three rules for writing a scientific name using the system. Analyze the information in Model 2 to complete the table below.

Rule 1: The scientific name is always written in 2 parts, with the genus name written first and the species name second.

Rule 2: The scientific name is always written in Latin. It is handwritten, it is not italicized or underlined.

Rule 3: The first letter of the genus name is a capital letter.

13. The species is used to name the world. Why do you think Latin is used instead of a more popular language?

Yes, in Latin, species means "kind".
Latin was used for all things important in the world.

14. Using the system, would it be possible for two different species to have the same name?

No

15. In Linnaeus's time, classification was based on the appearance of organisms. This does the appearance of organisms such as shape and legs, shells and feathers, and pigmentation and eyes. What are the limitations of classifying organisms by only their appearance?

You may miss something important. Organisms that together fit a name with features, a country, but do not belong together.

16. Considering advances in science, discuss with your group what might be a more reliable way to study organisms. List at least three additional ways to study organisms.

- Behavior
- Ways to obtain food
- Adaptions to environment
- DNA analysis
