Parkin,1998 For the first time comprehensive cancer survival data are published from developing countries 10 populations in total from Costa Rica Cuba China India the Philippines and Thailand These data allow valid comparisons to be made with data from Europe and North America An interesting finding is that for cancers associated with poor prognosis the differences in survival between developed and developing countries were negligible. However, there are larger absolute differences for cancers of the large bowel, breast, cervix, ovary, and testis, and for lymphoreticular malignancies. The publication provides a framework for investigating the problems in data gathering and patient follow-up, as well as methods for estimating cancer survival in developing countries.
