Diseased Cinema Robert Alpert, Merle Eisenberg, Lee Mordechai, 2023-09-29 Discusses how the depiction of diseases in movies has changed over the last century and what these changes reveal about American culture Examines disease movies as a genre that has emerged over the last century and includes pandemic and zombie films Reveals the changes to the genre's narratives over three broad time periods the beginning of film through the 1980s the 1990s through the mid 2000s and the late 2000s and afterward Investigates the evolution of disease movies through three perspectives historically notable films remakes and franchises Analyses disease movies in the context of the development of American global capitalism and the fragmentation of the social contract Explains the role of disease movie narratives in the American experience of Covid American movies about infectious diseases have reflected and driven dominant cultural narratives during the past century These movies both real pandemics and imagined zombie outbreaks have become wildly popular since the beginning of the 21st century They have shifted from featuring a contained outbreak to an imagined containment of a known disease to a globalized uncontrollable pandemic of an unknown origin Movie narratives have changed from identifying and solving social problems to a despair and acceptance of America's failure to fulfil its historic social contract Movies reflect and drive developments in American capitalism that increasingly advocates for individuals and their families rather than communities and the public good Disease movies today minimize human differences and envisage a utopian new world order to advance the needs of contemporary American capitalism These movie narratives shaped reactions to the outbreak of Covid and reinforced individual responsibility as the solution to end the pandemic Danny Boyle - Lust for Life Mark

Browning, 2012-05-01 Danny Boyle is one of contemporary filmmaking's most exciting talents Since the early 1990s he has steadily created a body of work that crosses genres and defies easy categorisation from black humour Shallow Grave gritty realism Trainspotting screwball comedy A Life Less Ordinary cult adaptations The Beach and horror 28 Days Later to science fiction Sunshine children's drama Millions love stories Slumdog Millionaire and tales of personal redemption 127 Hours Unlike many of his peers Boyle seems most comfortable when working with modest budgets relying on acting ability rather than special effects and surrounding himself with a trusted team of writers cinematographers and production designers His restless energy vitality and drive find their expression in the celebratory tone of his films their lust for life In this book Mark Browning provides a rigorous but highly accessible analysis of Boyle's work discussing the processes by which he absorbs generic and literary influences the way he gains powerful performances both from inexperienced casts and A list stars his portrayal of regional identity his use of moral dilemmas as a narrative trigger and the religious undercurrents that permeate his films Light Shining in a Dark Place Jeff Sellars, 2012-06-04 In Light Shining in a Dark Place Jeff Sellars has drawn together more than a dozen scholars around the theme of discovering theology through the moving medium of film The varied contributors in this collection explore through their particular lenses how theological ideas might be seen in and considered through one of the most popular of modern art forms From subjects of sin grace and forgiveness to violence science fiction fantasy and zombies Light Shining in a Dark Place assists the theologically interested film viewer in tracing the light that might be found in the filmic arts back to the source of all lights Contributors Bruce L Edwards J Sage Elwell Michael Leary Peter Malone Kevin C Neece Simon Oliver Kim Paffenroth J Ryan Parker Travis Prinzi Megan J Robinson Scott Shiffer James H Thrall and Alissa Wilkinson Representing the New AI in Film and Television Graham Allen,2025-05-29

The 21st century has witnessed rapid advances in artificial intelligence giving rise to a society at once hopeful but also mistrustful of the possibilities that this technology offers Our hopes and anxieties have played out across a variety of media in recent times but arguably nowhere more significantly than on our screens This book explores a phenomenon which it calls the new AI cinema and television arguing that since the mid 2010s a distinctly new phase in the representation of AI has occurred Discussing films such as Blade Runner 2049 Ex Machina and Ghost in the Shell alongside television series such as Westworld and Humans it argues that they have moved away from apocalyptic scenarios towards questions of personhood consciousness and social inclusion and exclusion In doing so it intervenes in some of today s most pressing debates including gender representation AI ethics climate catastrophe and the rights of artificially intelligent beings Where No Black Woman Has Gone Before Diana Adesola Mafe,2018-03-01 A look at African American women in science fiction fantasy and horror A compelling contribution to the scholarship on speculative cinema and television Journal of American Culture When Lieutenant Uhura took her place on the bridge of the Starship Enterprise on Star Trek the actress Nichelle Nichols went where no African American woman had ever gone before Yet several decades passed before many other black women began playing significant roles in speculative i e science fiction fantasy and horror film and television a troubling omission given that these genres offer significant opportunities for reinventing social constructs such as race gender and class Challenging cinema s history of stereotyping or erasing black women onscreen Where No Black Woman Has Gone Before showcases twenty first century examples that portray them as central figures of action and agency Writing for fans as well as scholars Diana Adesola Mafe looks at representations of black womanhood and girlhood in American and British speculative film and television including 28 Days Later AVP Alien vs Predator Children of Men Beasts of the Southern Wild Firefly and Doctor Who Series 3 Each of these has a subversive black female character in its main cast and Mafe draws on critical race postcolonial and gender theories to explore each film and show placing the black female characters at the center of the analysis and demonstrating their agency The first full study of black female characters in speculative film and television Where No Black Woman Has Gone Before shows why heroines such as Lex in AVP and Zo in Firefly are inspiring a generation of fans just as Uhura did Transnationalism and Genre Hybridity in New British Horror Cinema Lindsey Decker,2021-03-01 As an intervention in conversations on transnationalism film culture and genre theory this book theorises transnational genre hybridity combining tropes from foreign and domestic genres as a way to think about films through a global and local framework Taking the British horror resurgence of the 2000s as case study genre studies are here combined with close formal analysis to argue that embracing transnational genre hybridity enabled the boom starting in 2002 the resurgence saw British horror film production outpace the golden age of British horror Yet resurgence films like 28 Days Later and Shaun of the Dead had to reckon with horror's vilified status in the UK a continuation of attitudes perpetuated by middle brow film critics who coded horror as dangerous and Americanised Moving beyond British cinema studies focus on the national this book also presents a fresh take on long standing issues in British cinema including genre and film culture
