Directory of Scholarly Journals in Turkey Metin Kozak, Nazmi Kozak, 2017-03-07 Scholarly journals are the capillaries of the scientific world ensuring the circulation of knowledge. Moreover, scholarly journals guide and indicate the scientific development in an academic field of study or in a country. Scholarly journals which transfer and spread scientific information are intended to properly fulfill their functions, preventing the transfer of imperfect or incorrect information to the science world. Significant issues are therefore inevitable in the characteristics of scientific studies in such disciplines and countries where the scholarly journals do not fulfill their functions properly. This study encompasses all scholarly journals published in Turkey in all fields of science and other disciplines. The reference questions in this study are grouped under three main categories: the contact and publication information, article evaluation, and publishing information. The number of journals in this present study totals 1 910.

Resolving Intergenerational Conflicts Toshiaki Hiromitsu, 2024-03-29 This book is an unprecedented consideration of the challenges of what we can do for generations yet to come. Many growing intergenerational conflicts of interest such as climate change and fiscal sustainability are the result of the historically new progress of increasing human power and the resolution of those conflicts demands a new intergenerational ethic. The book offers fresh new ideas for resolving intergenerational conflicts through the exploration of an entirely new field conceptualized in philosophy developed in economics and tested in experiments. In particular, this work develops the theory of intergenerational cooperation based on a new relationship of direct reciprocity between generations. From experimental results, the possibility of intergenerational cooperation through Kantian categorical imperative is shown. The book also examines the effectiveness of inviting representatives of future generations which are called imaginary future generations into the deliberations for current policy decisions. The original Japanese edition of this book was awarded the 66th Nikkei Prize for Excellent Books in Economic Science. The prize was established in 1958 to contribute to the advancement of academics and knowledge in the fields of economics, management, and accounting as well as to its general dissemination and application.

EUSA Review, 2004 White Paper on International Economy and Trade, 2007 OECD Economic Surveys: Japan 2009 OECD, 2009-10-13 This 2009 edition of OECD's periodic review of Japan's economy includes chapters on overcoming the global crisis, improving the efficiency of the banking sector, the fiscal response to the crisis, and fiscal sustainability, health care reform, and international journal of forcing, 2001 The Rise of Asia Prema-chandra Athukorala, 2010-07-12 The Rise of Asia examines emerging trends and patterns of foreign trade and investment in Asia with a view to contributing to the policy debate on how development strategies should be adopted in response to challenges to economic globalization. The existing body of knowledge in this subject area has predominantly been shaped by the experiences of the newly industrialized countries (NICs) in East Asia. This volume is inspired by the conviction that generalization from the NIC experience is hazardous because the on-going process of economic globalization over the past two decades has dramatically transformed the international context of national development policy making. Moreover, as embracing market albeit at varying degree and rapidly has now become an Asia wide phenomenon it is vital to look at the issues from a broader relational perspective paying attention to opportunities for intra regional division of labour within the wider context of global economic integration. This book will be of interest to students and scholars with an interest in Asian studies, economics, political economy and globalization.

Fifty Years of Economic Measurement Ernst R. Berndt, Jack E. Triplett, 2008-04-15. This volume contains papers presented at a conference in May 1988 in Washington D C commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Conference on Research in Income and Wealth (CRIW). The call for papers emphasized assessments of broad topics in economic measurement both conceptual and pragmatic. The organizers desired and succeeded in obtaining a mix of papers that first illustrate the range of measurement issues that economics as a science must confront and second mark major milestones of CRIW accomplishment. The papers concern prices and output (Griliches, Pieper, Triplett) and also the major productive inputs capital (Hulten) and labor (Hamermesh). Measures of saving, the source of capital accumulation, are covered in one paper. Boskin measuring productivity, the source of much of the growth in per capita income, is reviewed in another. Jorgenson. The use of economic data in economic policy analysis and in regulation are illustrated in a review of measures of tax burden (Atrostic and Nunns) and in an analysis of the data needed for environmental regulation (Russell and Smith). The adequacy of data for policy analysis is evaluated in a roundtable discussion (chapter 12) involving four distinguished policy analysts with extensive government experience in Washington and Ottawa.

Micro-evidence for the Dynamics of Industrial Evolution Almas Heshmati, Jeong-Dong Lee, 2008. Creation of firms with new ideas, their growth and exit of inefficient ones constitute the essence of creative destruction which has been the engine of capitalist society. By observing the process of birth, growth and death of firms we can understand the overall picture of dynamics that an industry experiences over the life cycle. The book contains nine chapters of which nine are contributed chapters and is divided into three parts. The first part shows some stylised facts of industrial dynamics in Korea and Japan. The second part deals with the issue of globalisation and innovation from the perspective of industry dynamics. The last part investigates the implication of size on the Korean manufacturing industry. The common feature of all contributions is found in the approach used. Thus the authors do not focus on the theoretical models but on numerical evidences. Japan has taken the lead position in the level of technology and industrial performance as characterised by its competitive large companies and
