By Michael E. Gerber

Introduction

- Over 1 million new businesses are started each year in the U.S.
- At least 40% will not make it through the first year
- Within five years, more than 80% will have failed
- And 80% of those business that survive the first five years, fail in the second five years
- Therefore only 40,000 businesses or 4% of the original 1 million survive the first 10 years.

To change those odds you need to understand what a business really is and what it takes to make it work.

Part I – The E-Myth and American Small Business

1. The Entrepreneurial Myth –

- In this country there is a romantic belief that small businesses are started by entrepreneurs, when, in fact, most are not.
- Rather, one day you wake up and say to yourself, “Why am I working for this guy? I know as much about the business as he does. Why not start my own business?” So you go into business for yourself.
- But there is a Fatal Assumption in your thinking – if you understand the technical work of a business, you understand a business that does that technical work. Wrong!
- The technical work of a business and a business that does that technical work are two totally different things!

2. The Entrepreneur, The Manager and The Technician

- Everybody who goes into business is three people in one: The Entrepreneur, The Manager and The Technician who battle each other.
- The Entrepreneur
  - Is the visionary in us
  - Creates a great deal of havoc around him
  - Considers most people as problems getting in the way of the dream
- The Manager
  - Is pragmatic
  - Does the planning, keeps things in order
  - Cleans up the messes of the Entrepreneur
- The Technician
  - Is the doer
