and respond to content while the platforms themselves monetise the digital traces of this activity This environment demands new ways of thinking about audience and user engagement with media technologies and raises significant questions on methods of conceiving and researching audience users This volume addresses ongoing debates in the field of audience research by exploring relevant conceptual and methodological issues concerning the systematic study of digital audiences Drawing from work conducted by researchers based in Australia and New Zealand the book uses theoretical frameworks and case study material which are of direct relevance to audience researchers globally complex and it has undergone significant historical shifts over time Media Audiences explores the concept of media audiences from four broad perspectives as victims of mass media as market constructions and commodities as users of media and as producers and subcultures of mass media Media, Audiences, Effects Paul J. concept has changed as well as examining the relationships which audiences have with texts and the ways in which they exert their power as consumers We also look at the political economy of audiences and the ways in which they are delivered to advertisers as well as attending to the ratings war being waged by broadcasters and the development of narrowcasting and niche audiences Finally the book looks ahead to the future of audience research suggesting that new genres such as reality TV and new ICTs such as the internet are already revolutionising the way in which research with audiences is taking place in the 21st century not least because of the level of interactivity enabled by new media
