Planning for Greying Cities Tzu-Yuan Stessa Chao, 2017-12-06 Planning for Greying Cities Age Friendly City Planning and

Design Research and Practice highlights how modern town planning and design act as a positive force for population ageing taking on these challenges from a user oriented perspective Although often related to healthy city concepts the contexts of age friendly cities and communities AFCC were not emphasized until the early 2000s Planning for Greying Cities is the first book to bring together fundamental and cutting edge research exploring dimensions of age friendly cities in different spatial scales Chapters examine the ageing circumstances and challenges in cities communities and rural areas in terms of land use planning urban design transport planning housing disaster resilience and governance and empowerment with international case studies and empirical research results of age friendly environment studies It is essential reading for academics and practitioners in urban planning gerontology transport planning and environmental design Managing the City Economy Le-Yin Zhang,2015-03-24 In a world increasingly organised as networks of cities this book offers the first full length treatment of the subject of managing the city economy It explores key challenges and strategies particularly in developing countries where developmental deficits are greatest and almost all urban growth up to 2050 will take place Adopting a practitioner s perspective theoretically grounded and international in scope this book is unique in its focus and endeavours to connect theory with practice Through an interdisciplinary and strategic approach this book explores the challenges and options in managing the contemporary city economy It aims to illustrate the extent to which appropriate policy interventions in the city economy could offer effective solutions to some of the most difficult social and environmental challenges facing cities The book comprises five main parts Part I sets the scene and examines contemporary processes that affect cities and explains the challenges they pose for city managers Part II presents a selection of conceptual frameworks commonly used in urban economic analysis Part III examines the management of sectoral growth covering manufacturing exports of services transport and logistics and real estate Part IV addresses urban poverty low carbon transition and the informal economy Part V focuses on laying the foundation for long term city development exploring the roles of city development strategies municipal finance investment in people and appropriate infrastructure This book is designed for graduate courses in urban economic development urban planning urban policy and public administration and for professionals who are involved in the management of city economies or and conducting research consultancy or policy advocacy for cities Through critical review of relevant debates and a dozen case studies this book will equip city managers with the knowledge required to strengthen the performance of their city economy while delivering authentic and sustainable development Critical Urban Theory, Common Property, and "the Political" Dan Webb,2017-05-18 Dan Webb explores an undervalued topic in the formal discipline of Political Theory and political science more broadly the urban as a level of political analysis and political struggles in urban space Because the city and urban space is so prominent in other critical disciplines most notably geography and sociology a driving question of the book is what kind of distinct contribution can political theory make to the already existing critical urban literature The answer is to be found in what Webb calls the properly political approach to understanding political conflict as developed in the work of thinkers like Chantal Mouffe Jodi Dean and Slavoj Žižek This properly political analysis is contrasted with and a curative to the predominant ethical or post political understanding of the urban found in so much of the geographical and sociological critical urban theory literature In order to illustrate this primary theoretical argument of the book Webb suggests that common property is the most useful category for conceiving the city as a site of the properly political When the city and urban space are framed within this theoretical framework critical urbanists are provided a powerful tool for understanding urban political struggles in particular anti gentrification movements in the inner city

Art in the City, the City in Art Elisha Masemann, 2024-03-31 This Book examines an interplay between discourses on the city that stress the need for rational functional order and art's imaginative deviations from the topdown structures of urban life Moving between theory and praxis the book situates the city as both a concept and physical construct through which lives and possibilities are shaped or defined In response certain modalities of art create spontaneous non rational and playful interludes that risk escape from the urban apparatus and a hyper valorisation of rational order A three part framework is used to discuss this push pull dynamic and to assess the strategies of shock performative embodiment and intervention that emerged in post war art movements and in contemporary performance and participatory art practices The book examines how the disturbances introduced by artists throw the city construct into sharp relief making it visible and activating momentary encounters where new modes of expression can emerge This Book offers a new approach to interdisciplinary studies of art and urbanity The book aims to delineate how the city as concept and construct is made visible through artistic practice and in turn challenged or interrogated Students researchers and professionals with an interest in the interaction between art and urban studies will discover a new perspective on how urban conditions and issues have been addressed through artistic practice The book contributes to an evolving discourse in the urban humanities through an exposition of the city's default construct that is made visible or reimaged through visual art in public spaces Jadavpur Journal of International Relations, 2017
