Neurological Diseases Ying Xia, Xiaoding Cao, Gen-Cheng Wu, Jieshi Cheng, 2010-09-08 Acupuncture therapy has been practiced in China and other Asian countries for more than two thousand years Modern clinical research has confirmed the impressive therapeutic effect of acupuncture on numerous human ailments such as controlling pain nausea and vomiting However the biological mechanisms of acupuncture are still under debate In Traditional Chinese Medicine TCM the mechanism of acupuncture therapy is explained by a meridian model According to this model acupuncture is believed to treat the diseased organs by modulating two conditions known as Yin and Yang which represent all the opposite principles that people find in the universe both inside and outside the human body Yin and Yang complement each other and are subjected to changes between each other The balance of Yin and Yang is thought to be maintained by Qi an energy substance flowing constantly through the meridian a network connecting all the organs of the body The illness according to this theory is the temporary dominance of one principle over the other owing to the blockade of the Qi from flowing through the meridian under certain circumstance The axiom of No stagnation No pain in TCM summarizes this concept Thus the goal of acupuncture treatment is to restore the balance of Yin and Yang conditions in the diseased organ s This theory has been considered to be useful to guide this ancient therapy such as carrying out diagnosis deciding on the principle and selecting the acupoints

Imagining Chinese Medicine ,2018-05-01 A unique collection of 36 chapters on the history of Chinese medical illustrations this volume will take the reader on a remarkable journey from the imaging of a classical medicine to instructional manuals for bone setting to advertising and comic books of the Yellow Emperor In putting images their power and their travels at the centre of the analysis this volume reveals many new and exciting dimensions to the history of medicine and embodiment and challenges eurocentric histories At a broader philosophical level it challenges historians of science to rethink the epistemologies and materialities of knowledge transmission There are studies by senior scholars from Asia Europe and the Americas as well as emerging scholars working at the cutting edge of their fields Thanks to generous support of the Wellcome Trust this volume is available in Open Access
